Burn victim clings to life

Fights burns on 88 percent of his body

By Don Staruk

A 19-year-old Andover man, burned in a car crash on Interstate 93 last week, continued to fight for his life this week at the University of Massachusetts Medical Center in Worcester.

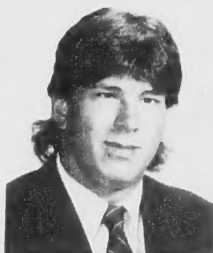

John Benson, 19, of 500 Lowell St., a 1991 graduate of Andover High School, remained in critical condition Wednesday morning with third-degree burns on 88 percent of his body.

"He's stable still, which is what he's looking for," Susan Benson said from her son's bedside on Monday. "He is alert. This morning he waved to us."

Her son was in the operating room Tuesday afternoon for his fourth skin grafting operation, and Ms.

Creative Living: A commitment to family

By Diana Zipeto

When she was 19, Rosalie Ruggiero made a commitment she has stood by for 45 years. Standing in a Massachusetts institution for the mentally handicapped, watching a patient chained to a doorknob, naked and kneeling, bang his head against the door, Ms. Ruggiero vowed never to let her newborn, mentally retarded son be treated this way.

Since that day, Ms. Ruggiero has started and worked for many institutions aimed at making the lives of the mentally retarded and their families easier.

Her son, Freddy, has been her inspiration and her resource. In trying to do right by her son, Ms. Ruggiero has made the needs of the mentally retarded central to her life.

Latest school redistricting plan: Creating a central school downtown

By Lisa Boudreau

The newest in a series of plans of alleviate overcrowding in the town's elementary schools calls for creating a central school district downtown. The plan also calls for reclaiming the current school administration building on Whittier Street for a kindergarten through grade five school. The building is the former East Junior High School, which was converted into town and school administration offices and portions of the Doherty Middle School in the mid 1980s.

The two biggest problems would be finding a new location for the Senior Center, which is currently located on the first floor of the building, and finding money to renovate and staff the

Patrolmen still without a contract

By Don Staruk

Police patrolmen are still without a contract this week, despite recent published reports claiming a settlement had been reached.

A report in the Jan. 19 Boston Sunday Globe erroneously reported a settlement had been reached in the three-year-old contract negotiations.

Asked about the settlement Monday, Patrolman Bill Wallace said no contract vote had been taken to his knowledge, and he didn't even know if one was Buzz Stapczynski, town manager, said Tuesday that no contract was signed.

"We're getting close. That's what I'm still saying,"

Mr. Stapczynski said Tuesday morning. "Nothing's signed."

"It seems like we're getting close and I have reason to be optimistic that we'll be signing something shortly," Mr. Stapczynski said.

With this issue, the Townsmen begins a section, Ballot Box, which will run from time to time during the year. The presidential primary is Tuesday, March 10, and the state primary is Tuesday, Sept. 15. The general election is Tuesday, Nov. 3. The town election is March 23.

Governor's Council By Don Staruk

Ronald Ford and Raffi Takesian, two Democratic Methuen city councilors, have each begun campaigns for the Governor's Council seat currently held by John Harris of Lincoln Circle.

Mr. Harris, a Republican, is in the second half of his first two-year term on the council. He said Friday that he will seek re-election in November.

The Governor's Council is an eight-member advisory board to the governor on judicial appointments and some state spending matters. The seat held by Mr. Harris represents 39 cities and towns, including all of Essex County and part of Middlesex County. Candidates need 1,000 certified signatures to get on the ballot. Nomination papers will not be available until Feb. 11.

Mr. Ford, of 9 Winthrop Ave., Methuen, began his campaign with an organizational meeting, attended by 56 persons, in Methuen on Jan. 14. He was heading to Billerica last Friday morning to shake hands with town employees there.

In addition to being a city council member, Mr. Ford is also a member of the Essex County Advisory Board, which votes on county budget issues. His connections in the county will make it easy to get the 1,000 signatures for his nomination, he said.

"I got 1,000 people," Mr. Ford said. "I have connections in all the areas. It'll be a good fight."

Mr. Takesian, who is semi-retired, said he just decided to run for the Governor's Council on Friday, Jan. 10, and that he really has only one campaign issue.

"I'm getting sick and tired of the so-called judges when it comes to sentencing the people who have been convicted of drug pushing. They're too lenient," Mr. Takesian said. "I just don't like drug pushers and I want to get to the root of this. Drug pushers are worse than murderers. I'm sick and tired of the leniency of judges."

Mr. Harris has not begun to campaign and said that when he does, it will be low key just like the council position he holds.

"It's a low impact job and campaigning will be the same way," Mr. Harris said last week. "I'm not going to take them on at all. I'm just going to run for re-election on the contributions I've made to the board."

Mr. Harris, a Republican, said the council has been busy lately, and could see much more activity if an early retirement bill being developed in the Legislature is passed. The bill could create 20 to 30 judicial vacancies the council would have to help fill, he said.

Independent Voters Party By Don Staruk

The new Independent Voters Party may cause confusion at the polls this year for Andover's largest block of registered voters, the unenrolled voters.

Andover has 8,349 unenrolled voters, many of whom consider themselves "Independent," according to Randy Hanson, town clerk.

But Independent was never an actual party. Now it is. And it is not the same as being unenrolled.

"We've got a three-party system now," Ms. Hanson said.

Voters may now register as Republican, Democrat, Independent, "unenrolled" or "other political designation."

The Independent Voters Party was the Independent Voters High-Tech Party until Question 4, on the Nov. 6, 1990 state election ballot made it easier to create new political designations and parties.

Fifty registered voters may petition for a new political designation under which voters may enroll. To become a party, a group's candidate for state-wide

School boy struck on Stevens Street

By Don Staruk

The parents of a 6-year-old boy struck and injured by a truck last week as he crossed Stevens Street in front of their house will ask town officials to post speed limits along the roadway to help slow traffic.

"We want speed limit signs," Natalie Sullivan said. "People go 50. They go right in front of our house at that speed."

Eric Sullivan, 6, of 57 Stevens St., was struck at about 8:15 a.m. Tuesday, Jan. 14, as he ran to catch the school bus.

"He was crossing to get to the bus stop and he didn't look," his mother said. "I watched the whole thing. I freaked."

He was taken to Lawrence General Hospital where he was admitted with a head injury. He was released Thursday morning, Jan. 16, and was back home resting on the couch, his mother said.

"He has a concussion and stitches on the back of his head, but no broken bones or internal bleeding or anything," Ms. Sullivan said last week. "He won't be back in school for about two weeks."

The West Elementary School first-grader was hit by the front grill and hood of the Chevrolet Blazer, his mother said. Martha McGinley, 46, of 32 North St, the driver, was not charged and police said speed was not a factor in the accident.

The speed limit on Stevens Street is 30 miles per hour, according to police Lt. Kevin Lynch.

Ms. Sullivan and her husband, Scott, said there is a sign near their house that says "Slow children," but they were not sure last week if that had been put up since the accident. But Ms. Sullivan said she and her husband also want speed limits posted and that she would try to talk to the town manager about the signs this week.

Lt. Lynch said more signs would probably not have made any difference in this accident, since the car involved was not speeding and the boy ran out into the street.

Town plans Earth Day

The town of Andover, in conjunction with the Greater Lawrence Environmental Network (GLEN), will celebrate Earth Day 1992 by sponsoring a townwide cleanup Saturday, April 11, beginning at 9 a.m. The goal is to achieve a litter-free Andover by early afternoon.

The event will be managed on a site-by-site basis by captains who have volunteered to take responsibility for specific areas in the town. These areas include roadways, school yards, neighborhoods, church properties, cemeteries, parking lots, retail areas, parks, conservation lands, waterways of all sizes and playing fields.

Captains will enlist helpers to clean their respective areas, pick up the empty trash bags provided by the town and supervise their areas of responsibility. The town will provide dumpsters at strategic locations and pick up filled bags at designated drop points.

A thank-you party for volunteers will be held from 2 to 4 p.m. that day at Old Town Hall. Captains will ensure each volunteer receives a pass to the party which will include refreshments and entertainment.

People interested in serving as captains should contact the Department of Community Services in town offices on Bartlet Street and indicate what area they wish to supervise. The telephone number is 470-3800, Ext. 280. For more information about Earth Day 1992, contact Margaret Pustell, 475-4871; Joyce Ringleb, 475-3490; or Carole Chanler, 470-1550.

21st Century talk Monday

The Board of Selectmen will host another 21st century discussion at 7:30 p.m. Monday, Jan. 27, at West Elementary School on Beacon Street.

All residents, especially those in the West school district, are invited and encouraged to attend.

Collecting clothes for the needy

As a community service, Chris O'Keefe, owner of the Mail Room on Bartlet Street, has offered his facility as a collection center for wearable clothing suitable for charitable organizations. Warm clothing is especially welcome. All garments are requested to be clean and mended. Mr. O'Keefe will package the donations and deliver them to suitable distribution centers.

The Mail Room is located at 9 Bartlet St., across from Park Street Village.

Clothing may be brought in Monday through Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. and Saturdays from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Call 470-2001 for questions.

Tax bills are out

Town of Andover third-quarter tax bills have been sent out for Fiscal Year 1992, according to town officials.

The bills are due Feb. 3. Taxes unpaid after that date are subject to interest charges at 14 percent.

Town officials ask residents to use the envelope provided and are asked not to fold the bills.

Tax payments can be left at the white mailbox with the town of Andover seal in front of town offices on Bartlet Street.

The tax collector's office will be open Monday nights, Jan. 27, and Feb. 3, from 6-8, and is open Monday through Friday, 8:30 a.m. until 4:30 p.m.

Any resident who has not received a bill, or residents who have questions can call 470-3800.

Brian Pattullo is honored

Sgt. Brian Pattullo was chosen by his fellow workers as the police department's employee of the month for December.

Sgt. Pattullo, born and raised in Andover, was hired as a patrolman in July of 1981 while still a student at Merrimack College. He received his bachelor's degree in management two years later.

He worked as a court officer in 1989, was promoted to sergeant in February of 1990 and is currently a patrol supervisor working an alternating split shift, 5 p.m.-1 a.m., and 1-9 a.m.

Sgt. Pattullo has been accreditation manager for the past three years working with Lt. Donald Mooers, who abruptly retired last month.

"Since he's left, now I've taken over the accreditation department," Sgt. Pattullo said.

He will also be assisting in the records and computer divisions.

The new responsibilities should eventually have him working a 9-5 shift, but with staffing and budget constraints, the sergeant didn't know when that switch might be possible.

Sgt. Pattullo is single and living in Andover. His father, Lt. Hector Pattullo, retired in 1990 after 30 years on the force. One brother, Don, is a detective on the force. Another brother, Cliff, is an Andover firefighter. As part of his award, Sgt. Pattullo had a parking space out in front of the station for the month of December.

office must receive at least 3 percent of the vote, or at least 1 percent of the state's registered voters must enroll in that group's political designation.

In 1990, the Independent Voters High-Tech Party received enough votes to gain status as a new political party, according to Ms. Hanson. The group then changed its name to the Independent Voters Party.

As of Dec. 30, 1991, Andover had 17,063 registered voters: 3,776 Republican, 4,932 Democrat, five Independent, 8,349 unenrolled and one Libertarian.

A primary's main purpose is to choose the party's candidate for the general election. Registered Republicans can only vote in the Republican primary. Democrats can only vote in the Democratic primary and Independents can only vote in the Independent primary, if there is one.

But unenrolled voters can choose to vote in any one of the party primaries. The thing is, once an unenrolled voter casts a ballot in a party primary, he or she is then automatically registered with that party.

The only way to return to the list of unenrolled voters is to fill out a "change of party card," and to check the box for "unenrolled." Change of party cards are available at the polls and voters can fill them out as soon as they leave the voting booth.

Ms. Hanson is concerned that unenrolled voters who cast a ballot in a primary will either not fill out a change of party card, or will check off "Independent" because they are unaware of the difference between Independent and unenrolled. That could cause a problem in subsequent elections.

"If they do not change their party before the last day of registration for the September primary, they will automatically get the ballot for the party they last voted in the last primary," Ms. Hanson said.

And those who do fill out a change of party card, but mistakenly sign Independent instead of unenrolled, will only be able to vote Independent in September.

"At this primary, the voters are going to have to be more educated on what they put on that change of party card," Ms. Hanson said.

Pam Pitarys, a spokeswoman in Secretary of State Michael J. Connolly's office, said the state is also aware of the confusion caused by the new party.

"We're trying to bring light to this issue," Ms. Pitarys said last week.

A bill currently in the Legislature would allow unenrolled voters to vote in a primary without changing parties. But until that passes, if it does, Ms. Hanson anticipates confusion at the polls.

The company started with six employees and now there are 26, his mother reports. "I'm proud of him," she said.

"Hosting Vice President Quayle was a tremendous honor," said Mr. Lamson, who is 28. "It's a boost to growing companies in this industry."

Peter's father, Thomas Lamson, a dentist, has had an office at 15 Central St. since 1961. Lyndia Lamson told us that she and her husband met the vice president, too. Mrs. Lamson, who voted for President Bush and Dan Quayle, was very impressed with the vice-president.

"He's very warm, very personable, very professional," said Mrs. Lamson. "I was very, very impressed with the way he handles people. In a short time, you feel maybe he's interested in you."

Asked if she will vote for the Bush-Quayle team again, Mrs. Lamson said she is listening and reading. "At this point, yes, I will vote for them again. But there are a lot of things I wish he would change."

Mary Lyman is running for school board

Mary Lyman, the town's former personnel director, has taken out nomination papers for School Committee. That brings the number of people interested in the two open seats to three. Ms. Lyman, 65 Carmel Road, who ran unsuccessfully for School Committee last year, joins incumbent Dick Hubbell, 74 Wildrose Drive, and Shawsheen School PTO member Larry Lewis, 7 Stevens Street.

Ms. Lyman told the Townsmen that even though she was disappointed with her finish last year, she still believes the committee would benefit from her experience in town business.

"I'm concerned with the struggles the School Committee members will continue to have with budget issues. I've worked with these issues for a long time and I believe I can work with the committee members toward a common goal," she said.

Ms. Lyman resigned from her position as head of the town's personnel department in 1990. She and her husband, James Lyman, have a 14-month-old son, Andrew.

"I'm at home now and I have the time to commit to a campaign and the School Committee if I'm elected," she said.

Board of Selectmen

Selectman incumbents Gerald Silverman and Charles Wesson have both returned their nomination papers to the clerk's office. They are the only declared candidates for the two open seats on the Board of Selectmen.

Moderator

Incumbent Town Moderator James Doherty and long-time challenger John Doyle are the only declared candidates for that post. Both Mr. Doherty and Mr. Doyle have returned their papers to the clerk's office.

Handicapped center buys building

By Don Staruk

The Professional Center for Handicapped Children last week bought at auction the building it leases at 32 Osgood St., ending fears it might have to move.

"We're just thrilled. This is going to reduce our expense and keep the agency stable," Cindy Stocking, co-director of the school, said Tuesday.

The school bought the 7,000-square-foot former Knights of Columbus building and the 2-3/4 acre lot for $311,000. The auction was held at the center on Thursday, Jan. 16.

The center is a non-profit school that serves approximately 300 handicapped Merrimack Valley children at any one time, and is the only one of its kind in this area. Change of ownership could have forced the school to make a costly and disruptive move, school personnel said.

The center's 14-member board of directors, Ms. Stocking and Veryl Anderson, the other co-director, began a fund raising effort last November to buy the property. They

of attention is the privacy.

At St. John's new Ambulatory Surgery Center, we're continuing our century-old tradition of treating each patient with the utmost dignity and respect.

One good example of this is the fact that we provide each patient with a private room.

So patients can recover comfortably and discuss their care in confidence with doctors and nurses.

Of course, many people are impressed by the world-class arthroscopy suite, the advanced facilities and medical technology, and the superior medical care.

But patients at St. John's new Ambulatory Surgery Center also appreciate the way they're treated: in privacy.

Andover Bank reduces staff

But 4th-quarter results show 'improved financial performance,' says CEO Mulligan

Andover Bank announced that it has made reductions in its officer and non-officer staff. A total of 16.5 or 8 percent of full-time equivalent positions have been eliminated. But yesterday morning, Gerald T. Mulligan, bank president and chief executive officer, said the bank's fourth quarter report shows a profit for 1991. "Andover Bancorp's results for the fourth quarter represent an improved financial performance over third quarter and maintenance of a strong capital position at 8.2 percent," said Mr. Mulligan.

He said net income for the fourth quarter amounted to $3.6 million or $0.87 per share as compared to a net loss of $7.0 million of $1.70 per share in the corresponding period of 1990.

In cutting staff, Mr. Mulligan cites the bank's objectives to increase operating efficiencies and better position the bank for the future as the reason for the staff reductions.

Charles Clist to manage the Andover Marriott

Charles Clist has been appointed general manager of the 293-room Andover Marriott Hotel.

Mr. Clist will oversee all aspects of the hotel's daily operations and quality improvement process, including front and back office operations, sales and marketing efforts, guest satisfaction, finances, catering, housekeeping and room operations. In addition, he will serve as liaison and property representative for the local community, increasing awareness of the hotel and its services among business and community leaders.

A 16-year veteran of Marriott Hotels, Resorts and Suites, Mr. Clist most recently served as general manager for the Westborough Marriott for the past year. While in this position, he was honored as General Manager of the Year for Loss Prevention by Marriott Corporation, an award given to only 20 of the 223 Marriott general managers worldwide who excelled in such hotel management and operations skills as hotel leadership, outstanding guest satisfaction, exceptional innovations and total quality management.

Prior to joining the Westborough Marriott, Mr. Clist held numerous positions in the Marriott executive development program. Since 1983 he "Faced with the uncertain local economy, a high level of non-performing loans and the resultant financial losses in 1991, we have streamlined operations to reduce costs while at the same time maintain our standards of customer service. Until now, we have succeeded in reducing the number of full-time employee equivalents through attrition.

"Regrettably, we decided to take this difficult step of eliminating additional positions to reduce administrative costs. This move is consistent with what is happening in the banking industry generally and is necessary to remain competitive. Throughout our market area, banks are downsizing and otherwise streamlining to become more efficient. With the exception of personnel recently retained to work out problem assets, Andover Bank now has 10 percent fewer full-time positions than it did at year end 1990."

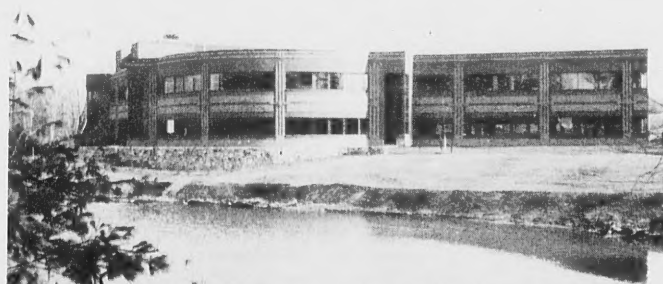

Charles Clist

served as resident manager at three Marriott properties: Castle Harbour in Bermuda, Seaview Country Club Resort in Absecon, N.J., and the Newton Marriott. From 1980-1983, Mr. Clist worked at the Marriott's Camelback Inn in Scottsdale, Ariz., as director of services where he managed all aspects of the hotel's housekeeping, laundry and recreational operations. He joined Marriott Hotels in 1976 as sales manager for the Santa Clara Marriott in California.

A graduate of Washington State University, with a bachelor of arts degree in hotel and restaurant administration, Mr. Clist was an active member of the Westborough Chamber of Commerce and the Westborough Rotary Club and plans to pursue similar memberships in Andover.

A resident of Medway, he is in the process of relocating to the Andover area with his wife and two young sons.

Abbott Laboratories Pharmaceutical Division has leased approximately 5,000 square feet on the first floor of 5 Corporate Drive

Abbott Labs moves to 5 Corporate Drive

Koll Management Services announces that Abbott Laboratories Pharmaceutical Division has leased approximately 5,000 square feet on the first floor of 5 Corporate Drive in the Andover Corporate Center. Leasing Director Michael B. Wilcox of KMS represented the owner, Cabot, Cabot & Forbes, in the transaction, and Richard Lowe and Dennis McConnell of Cushman & Wakefield represented the tenant.

The 65,000-square-foot, two-story office building is 98 percent leased with the addition of Abbott Laboratories, which joins other tenants such as Ungermann-Bass and Transamerica Commercial Finance Corporation. One Corporate Drive of The Andover Corporate Center is 100 percent leased.

According to Mr. Wilcox, "Andover Corporate Center's array of tenant amenities, on-site property management and flexibility in accommodating multi-tenant layouts have contributed to such a successful lease-up of both of these first-class projects. Koll Management Services is pleased to bring 5 Corporate Drive's leasing program to substantial completion with such a prestigious tenant as Abbott Laboratories."

Club tells neighbors machine guns are safe

By Lisa Boudreau

Neighbors of the Andover Sportsmen Club, who voiced concerns about machine gun use at the club, had their questions answered last week by the president of the club, Ralph Block of Reading. Mr. Block talked about discharge of machine guns on the club's shooting range and allayed some fears neighbors voiced at a meeting held at the club's headquarters on the North Andover side of Harold Parker State Forest.

"I felt a little better after listening to" (Ralph Block), said Pat Thornton, 140 Jenkins Road, a neighbor of the club.

"They answered my questions and the people at the club seemed responsible," she added.

Mr. Block said only three of the 800 members are licensed by the federal government to own a machine gun, or "fully automatic firearm," as he prefers to call them.

"I know of only one member who fires his fully automatic firearm and that's a couple times a year and it's for a half hour on a Sunday morning. He brings it out and then puts it back in its box and goes home," Mr. Block said.

He compared owning a fully automatic firearm to owning a classic automobile. He said both are very expensive to own and are well cared for by their owners.

According to Mr. Block, every safety precaution and procedure is followed when a member uses a fully automatic firearm on the shooting range.

"We only allow one person on the range at a time with a fully automatic firearm. That person has to be accompanied by a club-trained range officer at all times when they are on the range,"

"They answered my questions and the people at the club seemed responsible."

said Mr. Block.

"There are 35-foot-high berms along the perimeter of the range and firing a fully automatic firearm is limited to a three-round burst with only three bullets in a string," he said.

Mr. Block said the club's firing ranges are designed and monitored along guidelines set by the National Rifle Association.

"We are doing everything we possibly can do with your safety and that of our members in mind," Mr. Block said.

"We want to be good neighbors. We're not a bunch of gun toting lunatics. We're just the same as you—we all have different hobbies. We aren't going to do anything to jeopardize your safety or ours," he said.

In order to own a fully automatic firearm a person must undergo "intensive scrutiny" by the federal government and have a thorough background check, said Mr. Block. In most cases an applicant waits anywhere from six to eight months before he receives a federal license, he said.

Because the club's shooting range is located in North Andover, which has bylaws allowing the discharge of firearms on private property with the owner's permission, the gun owners are within their rights to fire the weapons, Richard Stanley, North Andover police chief, told the Townsmen.

Rubber plant emissions cause problems

By Lisa Boudreau

Officials at Shawshen Rubber Company on Andover Street say they have spent more than $175,000 during the past few years to rectify foul smelling emissions from its smoke stacks.

"More work needs to be done and is planned for 1992," said Denis Kelley, company general manager, in a written statement.

According to Andover Health Director Everett Penney, Shawshen Rubber, which has been making fabric and paper adhesive coatings in town since 1943, has a "solid history" of not meeting air quality standards set by state and federal regulatory agencies.

During the past seven years, said Mr. Penney, neighbors near the plant have complained about the odors. Last week Mr. Penney wrote the Massachusetts Department of Environmental Protection and the state Department of Public Health, asking them to initiate air monitoring and emissions testing at the Andover plant.

"It's been an ongoing problem since '84. It's an air pollution problem with potential health implications," Mr. Penney said.

According to Mr.

Penney, neighbors have complained of "respiratory problems and other illness symptoms."

"I've had calls from neighbors on the top of the hill at Andover Street where the smoke stacks are. It's on the

Patrolmen still without contract

Both sides: Getting closer

Mr. Stapczynski said he had talked with the Globe reporter last week, and on Tuesday told patrolmen's union representatives that his anticipation of a contract agreement had been misunderstood by the reporter, according to Tom Siopes, union president.

Officer Siopes agreed that the contract talks are going well.

"Nothing is completely resolved, but things look promising," Officer Siopes said after more discussions with the manager Tuesday. "We should know better in a week or so."

The patrolmen are negotiating for a raise, but the figures quoted in the Globe article were also false, according to Officer Siopes.

"Those figures are screwed up," Officer Siopes said. "I don't know where those figures came from. Buzz doesn't either."

The two sides are close to agreement on other figures, but Officer Siopes did not want to go into detail for fear of compromising the negotiations. Most of the problems that remain are "wording issues," he said.

Once the remaining issues are settled, the union will set a date for a vote on the contract. That vote is three to four weeks away at best, according to Officer Siopes.

The town and union have been close to a contract settlement in the past, only to have offers rejected on both sides and negotiations fall apart.

Patrolmen have been working without a contract for two and a half years. They are negotiating a three-year contract, which would be retroactive to July 1, 1989, and would end June 30 of this year.

As soon as a contract is signed, negotiations on the next three-year contract will begin.

Siopes to step aside

'Nothing is completely resolved, but things look promising.'

Tom Siopes, union president

When the patrolmen's union elects officers, probably some time in February, Officer Siopes will step aside as president, he said Tuesday.

"I want out. I've been there too long. Too many heartaches for me," Officer Siopes said, adding that the last part was a pun.

Officer Siopes has been on sick leave from the department since he suffered a minor heart attack in early December.

"It's too much work," he said of the union position.

He has been union president since 1984 for all but nine months.

Town clerk seeks census forms

The 1992 Town Census was mailed the week of Jan. 6. Residents are asked to make corrections, sign and return their census forms as soon as possible. If residents do not receive their Town Census by Jan. 24, they should contact the Town Clerk's office at 470-3800.

The Town Clerk's office would also like to remind residents that there are four elections in 1992. Residents should check their voter status on their census forms.

Doctors talk to parents of disabled kids

A symposium on disabled children will be held Saturday, Jan. 25, in the Tewksbury Hospital Auditorium.

Sponsored by the Anne Sullivan Center's parent advisory group, the symposium will address the diagnosis, development and long-term care of children with disabilities.

It will begin with registration at noon; the fee is $5. The first speaker, Dr. Angela Lin, a clinical geneticist, will talk from 12:30 to 1:15 p.m. Dr. Lin, who works at the National Birth Defects Center at the Franciscan Children's Hospital in Boston, will address the topic "Clinical Genetics: Who, What, When, Where, How?"

Dr. Allen Crocker of the Developmental Evaluation Center at Children's Hospital in Boston, will talk about the "Psychological Growth of Children with Disabilities: A Team Approach" from 1:15 to 2 p.m.

After a 15-minute break, Dr. Kathleen Braden will lecture on "Nutrition Management of Children with Disabilities." Dr. Braden is from the Center for Children with Special Needs at the New England Medical Center in Boston.

Help for children and mom and dad

Ryan Vocell's parents have no idea what to expect from him. Born two and a half years ago with cerebral palsy, Ryan makes progress slowly, and ordinary things are triumphs.

"His speech was delayed a little bit, and he's still not walking," said his mother, Karen Vocell. "He was born with no sense of balance, so he's got a lot of physical therapy ahead of him."

She and her husband, Teddy, an emergency medical technician for the Andover Fire Department, enrolled Ryan in the Anne Sullivan Center in Tewksbury, an early-intervention program for disabled youngsters.

"It gets them geared up for kindergarten or preschool because they're so far behind," Mrs. Vocell said.

Children are usually referred to the program at birth. Ryan has been going to the Sullivan Center since he was 8 months old.

Mrs. Vocell said the staff gets the children involved in hands-on activities "to encourage them to move up to the next step....They try to emphasize what each child needs."

Ryan has almost completed the program, which is only for kids from infancy to 3 years. The Vocells are hoping he'll be able to enter a regular classroom.

Students win science awards

By Lisa Boudreau

Andover's elementary schools and Genetics Institute, a biotechnology company on Burt Road, presented 11 fifth-graders with excellence in science awards at Tuesday night's School Committee meeting.

GI has participated in science enrichment and mentor programs in the town's elementary schools this year. The 11 semifinalists were picked for their science grades and projects, evidence of outside interest in science, grades on standardized tests taken in the fourth grade and an interview with GI personnel who had volunteered in the school enrichment program.

"We were looking for a well-rounded student," said Peter Lasky, manager of human resources at Genetics.

"And we wanted to know what their interests outside of school are and who they looked to for a role model."

Four of the 11, one from each elementary school, were chosen to receive the top awards.

The finalists are: Sara LaPore, daughter of Robert and Kathleen Wheeler, from Bancroft Elementary; Jeremy Swerdlow, son of Richard and Valli Swerdlow, Sanborn; Naveen Goela, son of Jitendra and Geeta Goela, South; and Matt Arcidy, son of Samuel and Mary Arcidy, West.

The semifinalists are: Michael Welch and Lisa Verreault, Bancroft; Jessica Schoen and Kevin Zeuna, Sanborn; Pinank Modi, South; and Andrea Campbell and Kristen Houghton, West.

Back to the future

Essayists: Think of next century

The town of Andover, the school department and the Andover Townsman are organizing an essay contest on "Andover in the Year 2000." Essayists are asked to describe what they think Andover will be like in the year 2000 and to predict the biggest change.

Responses may be written in the form of:

1. A description of five late 20th-century objects that will be put in a time capsule to be opened in the year 2050. These articles should tell something about the town, fads and trends in the late '90s.

2. An imaginative essay, describing Andover in the year 2000 and changes that have led up to this date.

3. A letter to a distant friend, relative, business associate, colleague, etc., describing your personal experience in Andover as a student, citizen, public official or parent during the years leading to the 21st century. The letter should contain events and reflections.

4. An entry for Andover in a book titled Unique Places to Live in the United States in the Year 2000. The entry should highlight what makes Andover a desirable community to live in; offer a brief history of Andover in the '90s; and indicate what Andover's future directions will be in the new century.

5. One to three journal entries from the year 1991 on the eve of the 21st century, describing critical events in the life of the town and how you were involved.

The essay must be no more than 600 words long, typewritten and double spaced. They will be judged for originality, logic and writing style. They will be due Friday, Feb. 14.

First and second prizes and honorable mentions will be awarded in each of the following age groups: Grades three-five, grades six-eight and grades nine-12. There is also an adult category; see details, page 3.

Essays should be mailed or brought to the selectman's office, town office building, Bartlett Street, Andover 01810.

Merrimack hosts forum on school reform

State Rep. Mark Roosevelt, House chairman of the Joint Committee on Education, will participate in a Merrimack College forum on public school reform.

The forum on Wednesday, Jan. 29, at 7:30 p.m. in the college's library auditorium is co-sponsored by Merrimack and the North Andover League of Women Voters. It will focus on proposed school reform legislation that includes issues of tenure, school choice and financing.

A third-term Democratic legislator from Boston, Rep. Roosevelt was a member of President Carter's White House domestic policy staff.

In his legislation to reform schools, Mr. Roosevelt would eliminate tenure; forgive state loans for some teachers; eliminate school committee involvement in hiring and firing; and hold educators responsible for students' achievement.

Topics to be covered at the forum include:

- The Educational Excellence and Accountability Act, the proposed legislative educational reform package of Mr. Roosevelt's committee;

- "Every Child a Winner," the Massachusetts Business Alliance for Education proposal for legislative action for systematic reform of primary and secondary education;

- McDuffy vs. Robertson, the class-action suit supported by Fair School Finance that alleges fundamental inequities between rich and poor school districts and calls for equitable financing of all school districts.

Other participants in the forum are Dr. George Blaisdell, superintendent of schools in North Andover; Dr. Steven Jenkins, principal of Lawrence High School; John Rennie, chairman of the Massachusetts Business Alliance for Education; and Norma Shapiro, president of the Council for Fair School Finance.

Dr. Blaisdell and Dr. Jenkins will discuss the implications of proposed school reforms and the realities facing suburban and urban educators.

The free forum will include time for questions and comments from the public.

Sanborn classes keep kids after school – for fun

Sanborn Elementary School will become a hub of youth after-school enrichment courses beginning the last week in January and continuing in the spring term. Parent requests and student interest led to the organization of intensive, small-group courses focusing on the development of research and word processing skills.

Courses teaching these skills are Organizing and Reporting, Keyboard/Word Processing for 9- to 12-year-olds conducted by elementary teachers with expertise in these areas.

The Nature Classroom for ages 5 to 10, a hands-on life science course, will focus on ecology and highlight appreciation of natural resources.

Children will explore the newly expanded nature trails in the Sanborn woodlands.

Wizard Juniors, ages 8-12, will experiment in earth and physical sciences with a weekly take-home project. Picture Perfect Poetry, ages 9-11, fosters creative expression, linking poetry and artwork.

Art from Many Lands, for 5- to 12-year-olds, will focus on the study of cultural differences in artwork while students create individual projects each week, reminiscent of that culture.

The Department of Community Services catalog (pages 15-18) has additional information about these and other courses being offered at Sanborn.

Hand-made quilt raffled off

West Elementary School's Parent-Teacher Organization is sponsoring the raffle of a quilt made by four mothers of West Elementary students. They decided to pool their talents and love of quilting to raise funds for a new computer for the school.

These talented quilters – Pat D'Ambrosio, Tina Gatti, Deborah Morrison and Joan Ross spent many hours working to piece the 293 6-inch squares together to assist in the purchase of a Macintosh computer with hard disk and a CD-ROM.

The computer would provide multimedia technology to students and teachers at all grade levels. Software such as on-line encyclopedias, scientific and technical dictionaries, social studies programs, literature and music would be available.

The quilt is made of 100 percent cotton in teals, blues, greens and pinks, with a silvery gray and white background. It measures 93 by 110 inches and is machine washable. Mrs. Ross, who originated the fund-raising idea, describes the quilt as an "updated traditional medallion style."

The quilt was designed by Mary Ellen Hopkins, who has written books on quilting. The quilting of the finished top to the batting backing was done by Arlene Edelstein, a professional quilter in Peabody, who donated her services.

The raffle will begin Saturday, Jan. 25, at the annual PTO pancake breakfast where the quilt will be on display. Breakfast will be served at 8, 9 and 10 a.m. sittings.

Tickets are available at the West Elementary School office, from any West student or from Mrs. Ross, 685-7881. The drawing will be held at the PTO board meeting Thursday, March 5. Ticket-holders do not need to be present in order to win.

West Middle plans cabaret show

By Christine Contos

Less than a month back from their holiday break, students at West Middle School are getting into the swing of things again. Planning for future events has already begun.

Cabaret, an annual show put on by the students, has been planned for Wednesday, Feb. 12. A student committee has been chosen to help select the acts. The committee members include Todd Buonopane, Karen Kirley, Hector Esquilin, Erica Gulezian, Christine Contos and Alex Dallis.

Another annual event is the student government's selling of Valentine's Day carnations, which gives students the opportunity to send carnations to their friends. This year students may also purchase Valentine candygrams in which they can send special messages.

Another future event is a Kids 4 Kids fundraiser to benefit the local AIDS Action of Andover.

Students were busy before the break with many holiday activities, one of which was a canned goods drive. The student government collected 776 cans for local shelters. Kids 4 Kids raised money for the Eagle-Tribune's Santa Fund and came up with a grand total of $359.14, beating last year's $300.

For the holiday dance on Dec. 13, students dressed in holiday colors and had a great time celebrating with their friends. Another holiday activity was the annual concert held Dec. 19 featuring students from all the musical groups.

West Middle School music teacher Judith Palmer reviews the holiday concert program with student Karen Kirley, who is already helping planning the school's next musical event.

Students on the Green Team visited Boston's Chamber Theatre Dec. 20 to see short stories dramatized. After the theater, the students enjoyed dining out and singing Christmas carols on the bus ride home.

Christine Contos, an eighth-grader at West Middle, is secretary of the school's student government.

Doherty feast is fit for kings

To learn what the holiday is like, the students enjoyed a Fete des Rois, or Festival of the Kings. According to the French tradition, the revelers are served a large cake (la galette) in which a bean (la feve) has been baked. (In modern days a 1-inch plastic king has replaced the traditional bean.)

The person who gets the bean in his or her piece of cake is crowned king/queen for the festivities and chooses a consort. The pair rules for the rest of the celebration.

The king and queen can tell people in their "court" to do silly things that must be done or a consequence results.

Whenever the king or queen drinks, everyone must stop and give a toast, saying: "Le roi boit!" ("The king drinks") or "La reine boit!" ("The queen drinks!")

Doherty's students had cupcakes instead of a galette, but a plastic feve from France was placed inside one of the cupcakes.

The students drank apple juice instead of vin blanc (white wine) and grape juice instead of vin rouge (red wine).

Beth Cunningham found the bean in her cupcake and chose Reuben Krauson as her consort.

Along with several staff members and administrators involved in the interdisciplinary project, the students had fun actively learning about this cultural aspect of life in France, said French teacher W. Douglas Halsted.

THE REAL ESTATE CORNER

with Jean Fitzgerald & Pamela Lebowitz

WHEN YOUR BUYER HAS A HOME TO SELL

Prospective buyers often have homes they must sell in order to accept any offer that is contingent on the sale of another property. If you receive such an offer, there are ways to structure the sale that can minimize the seller's risks.

First, you might put a limit on the amount of time the buyers have to accept an offer on their property. You can also keep your home on the market. If a second offer comes in, you may be able to reserve the right to refuse the first conditional offer unless the contingencies can be met within forty-eight or seventy-two hours.

Many sales that start out as contingent offers work well for the sellers. Your purchaser is not going to be in the best bargaining position and is less likely to ask for concessions on price or other terms. Each situation is different, however, and before you accept a contingent offer, you should go over the pros and cons of the particular situation with your Realtor.

If you are considering a move, contact the professionals at: Century 21 Minuteman Realty. Call us at 475-1243, or stop by our office at 2 Elm Square.

Pianist Christopher Walter will perform with the Phillips Academy Essex Ensemble in a celebration of Mozart's birthday tomorrow night.

Two centuries of Mozart in one weekend

Town marks composer's birthday

The Andover Historical Society and Phillips Academy will join forces to celebrate Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart's 236th birthday Friday, Jan. 24.

The evening will mark the first of three days of music commemorating Mozart.

It will begin at 5:30 p.m. with cocktails at the Andover Inn, followed by dinner at 6:30. Then at 8, the academy's Essex Ensemble will perform a Mozart concert at Old Town Hall on Main Street.

The group will play Concerto for Trumpet and Strings by Leopold Mozart, Wolfgang's father, and the younger Mozart's String Quartet in D Major, K. 575 and Trio for Clarinet, Viola and Piano in E-flat Major, Kegelstatt, K. 498.

The featured artists are violinists Michael Rosenbloom and Heidi Yenny, violist Mark Smith, cellist William Thomas, trumpeter Vincent Monaco, clarinetist Eric Thomas and pianist Christopher Walter.

Tickets for the dinner and concert are $35 per person, which includes a small donation to the Andover Historical Society. Tickets for the concert only are $5 and may be purchased in advance at the society, at 97 Main St., and Andover Bookstore. Concert tickets are also generally available at the door on the night of the performance.

To continue the celebration, Phillips students, friends and faculty will present a chamber music party, featuring the works of Mozart, Ludwig Van Beethoven and Franz Joseph Haydn on Saturday, Jan. 25, at 7 p.m. in the Timken Room at Graves Hall on the PA campus. This concert is free.

On Sunday, Jan. 26, the day before Mozart's actual birthday, the Andover Chamber Players will perform his Symphonic Concertante for Violin and Viola, K. 364, with Ms. Yenny and Mr. Smith; Beethoven's Piano Concerto No. 4 in G Major, featuring Peter Warsaw as soloist; and the concert aria "Va, dal furor portato, K. 19c," with tenor soloist Allen Combs. The performance will begin at 3 p.m. in Cochran Chapel. It is also free.

Lectures continue China symposium

Phillips Academy's 1992 Headmaster's Symposium on China continues this week with two lectures. The first will be presented by Mark Salzman, martial arts expert and author, Friday, Jan. 24, at 7 p.m. in the George Washington Hall Theater, and the second on Sunday, Jan. 26, at 7 p.m. in Kemper Auditorium by Harvard University Professor Robert Kiely. Both events are free.

Mr. Salzman, whose book, Iron and Silk, has garnered impressive reviews from national and international circles, will speak on "An American in China" and give a demonstration of the martial art gong fu. Mr. Salzman, who at 13 began studying Chinese calligraphy, ink painting and martial arts, graduated Phi Beta Kappa, summa cum laude from Yale University in 1982 with a degree in Chinese language and literature.

His senior essay, "The Silent Mirror," translations of Parker Po-fei Huang's baihuashi, poems in vernacular Chinese, won the Williams Prize for best paper on an East Asian subject. He lived in Chang-sha, Hunan, from 1982-'84 and taught English at Hunan Medical College.

Mr. Salzman was an apprentice to several martial arts masters, including Pan Quingfu, one of China's greatest traditional boxers. He was invited back to China in 1985 to participate in the national martial arts competition in Tianjin.

Professor Kiely, a graduate of Amherst College, is the Loker professor of English and American literature and master of Adams Hall at Harvard University. He has lived and taught in China and will speak on "Going to School in China." During a recent visit to China, he was made honorary professor at Nanjing University.

This year's Headmaster's symposium, directed by Hale Sturges, PA instructor in French and former chairman of the foreign language department, will continue through March.

Young singer wins scholarship

Aspiring opera baritone and Andover High School senior Marcus DeLoach is one step closer to realizing his dream of becoming a professional opera singer.

Mr. DeLoach, who is the son of Elaine DeLoach of 44 Linwood St., won a $1,500 scholarship two weeks ago during a national singing competition in Miami called ARTS Week '92.

He was one of 104 actors, dancers, writers, visual artists and singers who had made the finals of the Arts Recognition and Talent Search competition sponsored by the National Foundation for Advancement in the Arts.

Mr. DeLoach was one of two opera finalists.

His voice teacher, Marie Stultz of North Reading, encouraged him to enter the competition. He sent a tape of his singing to the selection committee last fall and was one of the two singers chosen from the 800 who entered.

Mr. DeLoach said some of the highlights of the week were chances to attend college-level voice classes and watch other singers, dancers and performing artists.

Chance audition led to lead role in LaMancha

When Mark Nichols of Haverhill went to an audition to give moral support to his roommate, he had no idea he'd end up in the leading role.

Mr. Nichols, who will play Don Quixote in the Andover Theatre Company's production of Man of LaMancha, said the music and the talent of the group encouraged him to audition.

He joins a cast that includes Michael Blanchette of Georgetown as Sancho and Maureen Woodell of North Reading as Aldonza/Dulcinea.

Ms. Woodell is no stranger to Andover Theatre Company. Last summer she was named best actress at the New England Theatre Conference for her grueling portrayal of a rape victim in the disturbing drama Extremities. Before that she was a show stopper as Reno Sweeney in Anything Goes, receiving standing ovations.

Mr. Blanchette knows Man of LaMancha from several viewpoints.

In a combined performance with St. John's Preparatory and Lynnfield High schools, Mr. Blanchette was the Padre. He also played the barber in Amesbury Playhouse's version of the beloved musical.

Mr. Nichols said he is impressed by the organization of the group, which he attributes to show producer Kimberly Enders of Wilmington, director Wayne Leocata of Lawrence and music director David Murrow.

"There were several casting, scheduling and even performance location changes, but the group was determined to produce the show and do it well," he said. "The very strong cast carries past the footlights."

Performances will be Jan. 31, Feb. 1, 7 and 8 at 8 p.m., with a matinee Feb. 2 at 2 p.m. All performances will be at Doherty Middle School. Tickets are $10 for adults; $8 for children and seniors. For information, call ATC at 475-4221.

Kelly Johnson marries Robert Burgin

Kelly Lynn Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George P. Johnson of Acropolis Circle, and Robert Andrew Burgin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe C. Burgin of Petoskey, Mich., were married at South Church Aug. 31.

The service was performed by the Rev. Dr. Calvin F. Mutti, senior pastor of South Church.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attended by her sister, Jill Veilleux of Sanford, Maine, as matron of honor and by Krystal Hubbard of Alexandria, Va., as maid of honor. The bridesmaids were Shelley Culbreth of Fayetteville, N.C., cousin of the bride; Jennifer Hechemy and Tanya Zahornasky, both of Andover; and Tricia Kanbar of Winter Park, Fla.

Minister talks about aging

Last year one of the items auctioned at the annual church auction of the Unitarian Universalist Church of Andover was the opportunity to pick a sermon topic for a church service.

Fred Stott, a well-known Andover citizen and a member of the Finance Committee, was the high bidder. He chose the subject "Getting Older."

The Rev. David B. Parke, interim minister of the UU Church, will preach the sermon Sunday, Jan. 26.

To prepare for the sermon, Rev. Parke talked to members of the congregation of various ages.

"It seems that everyone is an expert on the subject," he said.

Church services begin at 10:30 a.m. A coffee hour will follow the service.

The public is invited.

Fire fighters have three cases against town

By Don Staruk

The town has three legal cases filed against it by firefighters.

Two revolve around a single pay dispute between deputy chiefs and firefighters, while the other is a three-year-old dispute over a firefighter's retirement pay.

The number of suits doesn't compare to the 24 filed by members of the police department, but they do add to the town's mounting legal expenses.

Michael Gilman, special counsel handling the police and fire cases for the town, was paid between $40,000 and $60,000 last year for his work. The cost for employees to negotiate and testify in these cases is just part of the additional expense the town faces. Any settlements against the town would be in addition to those.

Case 90-3639B, in Essex Superior Court, is an action brought by the deputy fire chiefs in Dec. 1990 which claims they are entitled to a 3 percent pay raise given to firefighters who hold a Class I or Class II drivers licenses.

The deputies claim a clause in their contract entitles them to the same benefits as firefighters.

Written arguments have been submitted by both sides and the case is still pending.

Case #MUP-8229 is an unfair labor practice case filed against the Massachusetts Labor Relations Commission by the firefighters' union in Dec. 1990.

The union claims it was an unfair practice by the town to agree to the clause in the deputies' contract entitling them to all the benefits firefighters receive.

The case has been investigated by the Labor Relations Committee and the town is awaiting a decision.

Case #2346-89, in Lawrence District Court, was filed in Oct. 1989 by Lenny Poole, of Lawrence, a former Andover firefighter. Mr. Poole is seeking a review of an ordinary disability retirement. The court complaint was denied in July 1991, according to Michael Gilman, special town counsel, but an appeal is still pending with the state Contributory Retirement Appeals Board.

Mr. Poole's CRAB appeal is to change his retirement to an accidental disability, which would entitle him to receive retirement benefits equal to about 72 percent of his former salary, instead of the roughly 50 percent he gets on an ordinary disability.

Mr. Poole claims a disabling arthritic condition in his legs is the result of injuries he received when a truck load of wood fell on his legs while working an accident scene on Route 495 in August of 1983. He retired and has been on ordinary disability since 1989.

The CRAB appeal was heard in November 1991 and a decision was still pending this week, according to town officials.

BUSINESS AND PRIVATE FINANCIAL MANAGEMENT

January 21, 1992

Dear Don,

Now that 1991 has drawn to a close, I want to thank you for the great job the Townsman has done in helping our business grow. At the end of each year we evaluate the sources of our new clients and, for yet another year, the Townsman came out on top of all sources except referrals from other satisfied clients. It's astounding to me how many high quality clients begin their calls with "I saw your ad in the Townsman and..."

From an economical point of view it also is a very efficient medium. In 1990 and '91, we received over $32 in revenue for each $1 spent on advertising in the Townsman.

Advertising in your paper is one of the most intelligent "investment" decisions we have ever made.

Sincerely,

Bill Ryan

Burn victim battles burns on 88 percent of body

Benson said she hoped he would remain stable afterward.

"Stable right now is good," she said.

"He's been through the first critical stage, the first 48 hours," she said.

The big threat now is infection, Ms. Benson said.

"He does have the first infection in his legs," she said.

Doctors expected infections, she said. Their challenge is to keep the infections from getting into her son's blood, lungs, or other vital organs.

"If he dies, it will be from one of these infections," she said Monday.

Ms. Benson thanked everyone who gave blood for her son in the past week, but said there is one more thing residents can do.

"Pray," Ms. Benson said.

Her son has no brain damage or internal injuries, but was medicated for pain, according to his mother. He is swathed in bandages and swollen from being pumped with fluids.

Family members are able to visit Mr. Benson for five minutes every hour, but because he is in a sterile environment, no other visitors, flowers or even cards are allowed in his room.

Doctors control Mr. Benson's body temperature by his room temperature, so Ms. Benson said the room is very hot.

Mr. Benson lives with his mother and sister, Samantha. His father, David Benson, lives in Boxford. Wayne Henderson, of 236 River Road, is a best friend, but more like a brother to her son, according to Ms. Benson.

Skin grafts

Ms. Benson said her son is frustrated because he is on a respirator and can't talk. Once last weekend, when he was thirsty, his mother asked if he would like his favorite soda, Mountain Dew, and he quickly nodded his head "yes."

Doctors are covering her son's body with skin grafts.

"He's had three surgeries. They've grafted his legs and his arms," she said Monday.

He had his legs and back done on Tuesday.

The first grafts will probably be rejected, Ms. Benson said. Doctors are hopeful that by then, a 21-day process to reproduce his own skin will have been completed, and the new skin can be grafted to her son's body, she said.

"They send a piece of tissue to Cambridge and they're growing skin for

High school swim team gives blood

Susan Benson, mother of burn victim John Benson, said response this week to her family's plea for blood donations has been amazing.

"I would like to thank everyone for their support and the blood they've been giving," Ms. Benson said Monday.

Several friends and others have gone out to the University of Massachusetts Medical Center, in Worcester, to give blood, Ms. Benson said. Many others have given at the Red Cross donor center, at 100 Milk St., Methuen.

So many donors showed up in Methuen last Thursday night that the center had to turn people away, according to Wayne Henderson, Mr. Benson's best friend.

"They didn't have enough nurses for the people that came in," Mr. Henderson said.

Mr. Benson was a member of the Andover High School swim team until he graduated last year. But he still attended most swim team meets since he's been home.

One night last week, the members of the Andover High swim team went down to give blood for their friend and were turned away because they were under age, Mr. Henderson said.

"They all went to their houses to get their parents so they could give blood," Mr. Henderson said.

A message on Ms. Benson's answering machine last week asked callers to donate blood for her son.

"His burns are very bad. If you would like to do something, what he needs most is blood. If you could get it out to the U-Mass Medical Center, that would be fine. If not, if you could give blood locally, that would be wonderful," the message said.

Her son used 13 units of blood in just the first skin-graft operation, according to Ms. Benson. That is why blood donations are so important, she said.

"John, from age 17 on, has given blood whenever they've asked for it at the Red Cross," Ms. Benson said.

Even if her son specifically doesn't use the blood donated in his name, he would be glad to know he was boosting Red Cross reserves.

"If John can be at all responsible for getting the blood banks back up, that is fine," she said.

Mr. Benson is lucky that he has A-positive blood, and not a rare type, his mother said.

But any blood donation can be given in his name.

Anyone who would like to give blood locally can do so at the Red Cross donor Center, 100 Milk St., Methuen. The center is open Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, 1-8 p.m., and 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Saturday.

Donors must be 18 years old, or 17 with a parent or guardian's permission, weigh at least 110 pounds, and be healthy.

Donating blood takes about an hour.

him. So it will be his own skin," Ms. Benson said.

Mr. Benson will remain critical until the burned skin has been replaced and the new skin has taken, a process that will take at least a month, his mother said. The third-degree burns that cover his body are the most severe type of burn.

The car accident

Mr. Benson was alone in his 1986 Chrysler Laser when it went off Interstate 93 northbound, just south of Lowell Street, at about 4 a.m. on Wednesday, Jan. 15, according to state police at the Andover barracks.

"He went quite a distance into the woods. He knocked down several trees," a state police spokesperson said last week.

The car overturned and burst into flames.

James Chiavelli, of Malden, a copy editor at the Lowell Sun newspaper, was on his way home on the south side of the interstate when he saw what he thought was a bonfire off the northbound side of the highway.

Thinking there might be a story in it, Mr. Chiavelli said he got off at the Dascomb Road exit and got back on going north.

"As I pulled up next to the fire this guy staggered out. He was naked. His clothes were burned off," Mr. Chiavelli said on Friday.

Mr. Chiavelli opened his car door and Mr. Benson got in. Mr. Benson was alert enough to answer questions and told Mr. Chiavelli that no one else was in the car.

"He kept saying he was in pain. He was in a lot of pain," Mr. Chiavelli said.

Mr. Chiavelli headed toward the Mobil gas station at Lowell Street where he knew there was a phone. Not knowing how badly burned Mr. Benson was, Mr. Chiavelli put a jacket over him to keep him from getting cold.

While they waited, Mr. Benson sat in the car and Mr. Chiavelli assured him that the ambulance was on its way. Mr. Benson kept repeating that he was in pain and rocked back and forth, Mr. Chiavelli said.

A Tewksbury ambulance took Mr. Benson to Lowell General Hospital. He was airlifted by helicopter to U-Mass Medical Center a short time later, according to a Lowell General spokesperson.

Nobody knows where Mr. Benson was coming from at the time of the accident, according to Mr. Henderson, the friend. And Mr. Benson has no memory of the accident, Mr. Henderson said.

Mr. Henderson, who works at King's Subs on Bartlet Street, said Mr. Benson came in to order a pizza hours before the crash. Mr. Henderson told Mr. Benson that he might stop by his house after work but never did.

The car was destroyed by the crash and fire. State trooper James Freeman is still investigating the accident, but was not available last week or this week for comment.

AHS graduate

Mr. Benson graduated from Andover High School last year, where he was a member of the Andover High swim team.

He was on the dean's list at Johnson & Wales University in Providence, R.I., this past fall. He took this trimester off and was planning to return to the school in March, his mother said. He was working at an aunt's store, Alpen Pantry, a gourmet food store, in the Burlington Mall.

Firefighters drop two

By Don Staruk

This is the fourth part in a series on town employee salaries the Townsman will run between now and April Town Meeting. The list is just a portion of the total town payroll. All figures are for calendar year 1990.

Firefighters slightly improved their pay package this past year, but two positions were cut from their ranks at the same time.

In both fiscal 1990 and 1991, deputy chiefs, lieutenants and firefighters received split 5 percent pay hikes, getting 3 percent on July 1 and another 2 percent on Jan. 1.

But in fiscal 1992, which began this past July, fire employees received the full 5 percent raise on July 1.

But while their pay package may have improved slightly, their overall ability to operate equipment slipped as two firefighter positions were cut from the roster due to budget constraints.

"July 1st we dropped two from the people who had retired," Chief Harold Hayes said this week. "To 46 from 48. Now we're probably at 45 because (Firefighter Dean W.) Ward's gone."

Firefighter Ward retired Jan. 1, 1992.

Lieutenants Raymond F. Fortuna and Arthur J. Keeler retired during 1990, as did firefighter James R. Haddad.

Firefighter Leonard J. Poole retired in 1989, and firefighter Robert West retired during 1991.

Henry A. Houle was the last firefighter hired, in mid 1990 after he was laid off from Chelmsford because of budget cuts there.

The department now has the chief, five deputy chiefs, 13 lieutenants and 45 fire fighters.

North Reading hires two ex-Andover policemen

'I'm proud to be getting another job after six months. We're both excited.'

By Don Staruk

Joseph Thibodeau III and Brian McAnalay, the two Andover police patrolmen laid off last June, will go to work next week, in North Reading.

"We were picked up by the North Reading police," Mr. Thibodeau said Tuesday.

The pair were to be sworn in as members of the North Reading department yesterday, Wednesday, Jan. 23, at 1 p.m., in North Reading's town hall.

"I'm proud to be getting another job after six months," Mr. Thibodeau said Tuesday. "We're both excited."

The two found out they'd be hired on Dec. 23, and had just been waiting to find out when they could start, according to Mr. Thibodeau.

The North Reading department is about half the size of Andover's, Mr. Thibodeau said.

Creating a central school in the downtown school.

The central district plan, which could be phased in partially by the 1992-1993 school year, received initial support from the School Committee and half a dozen or so parents who spoke at Tuesday night's School Committee meeting.

"The Senior Center is running out of space," said committee member Richard Hubbell.

"They would like a downtown site that is handicap accessible. There are various available spaces," he said, naming the former post office on Main Street, the Old Town Hall and the vacant Andover Companies building on North Main Street.

Selectman Larry Larsen, liaison to the Council on Aging from the Board of Selectmen, told the Townsmen the center is currently at its maximum capacity and would benefit from a larger facility.

"There is a waiting list for the center's day-care program," said Dr. Larsen.

"They are using all the space currently available to them on the first floor. They had thought of expanding at some point to the second floor of that building," he said.

According to Dr. Larsen, there are at least 1,000 senior citizens who use the Senior Center each week and 60 who regularly eat lunch there each weekday.

"They need more space and (the central school in the building) could be a win-win situation for both the schools and the seniors," he said.

The central district plan received initial support from the School Committee and some parents.

Ken Gropper, 32 Farrwood Drive, who chaired the town's last building study committee in the early '80s, said the planners kept the option open to turn the administration building back into a school if necessary.

"There's about 35,000 square feet here and it will take money to renovate," he said, agreeing that it would cost less to renovate existing space than build a new school in West Andover, which originally was suggested.

Mr. Hubbell and fellow committee member Susan Dalton both chastised the administration for not having more detailed cost analysis figures for the renovations and operational costs for the central district school ready for Tuesday night's meeting.

"I'm a little short of furious that the numbers, at least in general terms, aren't in front of us. We've been talking about this for several weeks now," Ms. Dalton said.

The School Committee currently has a warrant article asking for planning money that will go before Town Meeting in April for a vote. The price tag of that planning article was not to exceed $250,000, said committee chairman Christopher Outwin.

"We can adapt the planning article for plans to investigate renovating the administration building," or finding new quarters for the Senior Center, Dr. Outwin told the Townsmen Wednesday.

The School Committee voted to form a subcommittee to study redistricting and recommend a plan that would redefine the boundaries for all schools once the central district was on line. The subcommittee would be chaired by West Elementary Principal Jack Coyle, advised by School Transportation Coordinator Carol Znamierowski and consist of one parent from each elementary school.

Their charge would be to come up with a redistricting plan that would create a walking central district as well as alleviate overcrowding at both the West and South elementary schools, which are the most overcrowded in the system.

The time table for implementing the plan and having the central school ready for occupation goes as follows:

• Next school year, 1992-1993, students already at Shawsheen School would be allowed to remain through second grade and some redistricting of K-2 students at West Elementary would have to take place.

• All kindergarten students systemwide would be able to choose to enroll at Shawsheen on a seats-available basis.

• South Elementary School parents could choose to send their children to Bancroft Elementary School on a seats-available basis.

If a new location for the Senior Center couldn't be found, and/or funding fell through for renovations of the school administration building, Shawsheen may need to evolve into a K-5 school, said Dr. McQuillan.

That possibility did not sit well with many of the parents who attended Tuesday night's meeting.

"I have a child who will be going to kindergarten next fall. You keep talking about not having this ready and maybe keeping Shawsheen on line until you do. Can't you give parents some idea by next year if the central school will be ready? I want to minimize the disruption for my child," said Lilith Calkins, 1 Shipman Road.

"This plan buys us a year to contemplate a long-term solution," said Mark McQuillan, superintendent of schools.

By freeing up some space at the overcrowded schools next year, the administration, working with the town, will have time to find suitable quarters for the Senior Center and plan the central school, he said.

The School Committee will hold a public meeting on redistricting and space needs, Tuesday, Feb. 4, at 7:30 p.m.

RECYCLE

By Virginia Cole

Are any of you going to New Hampshire to hear and/or talk with some of the presidential candidates? Of course the economy is the most important issue - but how about offering some suggestions for jobs that don't mean Japan bashing and autos?

I'm not sure whether George Bush went to Taiwan recently, but if he did, I didn't hear any discussion about Taiwan's very successful plastics recycling program. Here is what they did and do.

As a small country with a population density almost impossible to manage and bad air, contaminated water and 90 percent of the waste going to landfills that could no longer expand, they began to devise a solution. Dr. Eugene Chien took charge of the country's Environmental Protection Agency and designed a solid waste management policy based on recycling.

He started with plastics as the beginning of his list of 15 products to be subject to mandatory recycling. At the same time he started education programs in the schools; a law was passed requiring producers to take cradle-to-grave responsibility for their products; a collection system funded by soft drink bottlers and a processing plant funded by plastic producers who would guarantee to buy all reclaimed plastics.

The key to Taiwan's success was the passage of the Solid Waste Management Act by the national legislature in 1988. This law was vigorously opposed (as it would be in the U.S.) by the business community. But it passed and industry became a partner with government and education in taking action to identify the affected products and to manage their disposal and elimination.

There was continued resistance but when the PET soft drink bottles were the target, the industry finally got down to business setting up an infrastructure for collection, reclamation and resale of these products. Recycling really began to work. In two years Taiwan was recycling 33 percent of its PET bottles and is working toward a goal of 50 percent. The system now is not only efficient but it turns a profit.

Isn't it time we learn recycling from the Orient as well as auto making?

Following a King

Sometimes it seems as though this country has made little progress in the war against poverty, homelessness and bigotry since 1968 when the Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. was assassinated at age 39. Of course we are grateful to him for his eloquent urging of passive resistance in the struggle to end discrimination. Yes, we have made progress. But somehow, it seems as if in the last few years we have been slipping.

Right here in Andover, there have been incidents of racism and bigotry that residents don't like to acknowledge. We remember when some young black Phillips Academy students were chased by older teenagers who were yelling racial terms at the scared new students. We know of a recent incident when a black student was called an ugly racial term by some white people driving by in a car. And we know that there are several recent examples of anti-semitism in this community.

We can thank Andover High School and especially its principal, Tim Thomas, for addressing incidents of racism in a constructive manner. And we can look to Phillips Academy for help in understanding the problem. The school community at PA is impressively diverse. And we can thank the ABC students who agree to live here and help us expand our experience and views.

But we can do more, too, about bigotry, poverty and homelessness. By remembering Martin Luther King Jr. and by opening our hearts and minds to the feelings of minorities — any minority — we will be better people.

Our reaction to racism is to talk openly about incidents as they happen. We believe that to hide such ugliness is to sanction it. And to sanction it is to pass on an unacceptable attitude to the next generation.

There is enough trouble in this world without fighting over the color of a person's skin, the race or religion of a person. Those characteristics should signal a difference that means we have much to learn from one another. We are all in this world together and we all have something to offer.

Students at Phillips Academy gathered Monday evening in Cochran Chapel for a celebration of Martin Luther King's birthday. Faculty and students sang Gospel hymns and several people spoke of Martin Luther King and his message. The Andover Choral Society will celebrate Black History Month with the story of Jesus from birth to the resurrection through African-American music Saturday, Feb. 1, at 7:30 p.m. at Christ Church, Central Street. Tickets, $5, benefit the ABC house. Next week's Townsmen will carry a story about the evening.

How do you run a newspaper?

By Perry Colmore Catlin

A 10-year-old fifth-grader reversed the tables on me last week.

Andy Conlon, son of Sally and Joe Conlon of 142 Haggetts Pond Road, interviewed me for a project he's doing in Holly Plamondon's reading comprehension class at West Elementary School. His assignment was to choose a topic, do an interview for it and write it. Now I want to write about our interview because his questions were so good and I thought you might be interested in the answers.

What are the good things about being a reporter?

You can be nosey and ask a lot of questions that otherwise would be rude to ask. You learn about subjects you know very little about.

What are the bad things about being a reporter?

Your work hours are strange — many hours in the first three days of the week; and sometimes you have to write stories and ask questions that are sad, or embarrassing and difficult to ask.

What does the editor do?

At the Townsmen we have two editors who share much of the responsibility of editing all the stories and working with the reporters on stories. They lay out pages in computers. In the "beginning" of the week, which is either Wednesday afternoon if we're not too tired from having just completed a paper or Thursday morning, the editors meet with the reporters and engage in a discussion from which story lists are drawn. Then all week, the lists are altered as stories break and some stories have to be put on hold so more important, immediate ones can be done. The editors also meet the public to discuss stories, to hear concerns and to understand what's important in town.

How long have you been working with newspapers?
Since 1976.

How do you decide what articles go on the front page?

We try to put the most important stories on page one and we try to have a mix of what we call hard news and soft news on page one. We try to put as many stories as possible on page one to draw readers into the paper. If one story doesn't interest you, we hope another will. One of the questions we ask when deciding which stories go on page one is:

What is everyone talking about in town this week?

How do you decide what articles go in the paper?

The answer is somewhat like the previous one. We try to have a mix of feature and news stories, breaking news stories and human-interest features. Then there are many stories that go into the paper most weeks, which we think are important: obituaries, menus, senior-citizen news, births (once a month), marriages and engagements and so on.

We also decide which articles go into the paper by listening to you, our readers, who make suggestions to us.

What kind of stories do you favor?

(I thought that was an excellent question, Andy.) I guess one of my favorite kinds of stories are the ones that help people. For instance, we once had a story about a woman who is having a hard time. A single parent, she's on welfare and has had

Shawsheen K-5 isn't a bad idea

Editor, Townsmen:

Although no longer residing in Andover, I still read the Townsmen from cover to cover upon its arrival here on the Cape. I gather that many, many parents are aghast at the thought of using Shawsheen School to house elementary grades K through 5, even willing to accept larger class size and cramped quarters, and it boggles my mind.

Many years ago we taxpayer's invested a huge amount of dollars in renovating the then Shawsheen Elementary School and it was used as such for several years prior to turning it into an early childhood center (a misguided decision me thinks, having in mind that the kindergarten students are now back in their neighborhood school). Perhaps the article in Newsweek (December issue) which pointed out that American parents concentrate too much attention on buildings (and administration) rather than teachers and curriculum has some merit in light of the attitude of vocal Andover parents. Students do not need special music or art rooms, they do need good and caring teachers, and Andover has an abundance of such.

Yet another article in last week's edition which troubled me concerned the decision (albeit delayed, thank goodness, thanks to selectmen Larsen and Wesson) to commence towing vehicles of parking ticket scofflaws. What a great way to convince Andoverites to shop downtown.

If I understand it correctly, the town already is paying the Registry of Motor Vehicles $10 per scofflaw to prevent the car owners involved from either renewing their license or registering the vehicle until all overdue parking tickets are fully paid. Has anyone checked with the registry recently to see if they are earning the $10 fee?

On a more positive note, I was absolutely thrilled to observe on a recent visit to my "home" town that traffic lights have finally been installed and are working at the High/Haverhill street intersection. I recall attending a selectmen's meeting back in February '87 pleading for such and, although it has taken some time to accomplish my objective, nonetheless I am truly delighted. Thank you, Sue Tucker, for all you did to make that dangerous intersection much safer for everyone.

Finally, let me say I really miss the town I lived in for 26 years. I still follow the soccer reports, despite the loss of my "On the Soccer Fields" caption, although I wish the coordinators would stop giving the girls' teams names of various flowers, non-threatening animals, etc., whilst the boys' teams are always given macho names. It sounds sexist to me and in any event it must discourage parents (I should think) from encouraging their offspring with "come on Violets," "you can do it Marigolds." Think about it.

I also keep up with the politics, always a keen interest. I agree with last week's editorial, permitting incumbents to run unchallenged is never a good thing and bespeaks of voter apathy. With tensions running high in the area of education, I am amazed that there are no challengers to the present incumbent. As for the Board of Selectmen, it is high time the town elected some of its many talented females to the board to make it more representative of the town's population.

What about it, Chris Holmes? Andover has to make some serious decisions about its future and it needs a female voice. Thank about it.

I'll continue following the happenings in my "home" town and, if fate is kind, perhaps I'll see some of you in Chatham when the weather improves.

Good work, Tim Thomas

Editor, Townsmen:

Two months ago, Andover High School responded to minorities protesting The Little Foxes by altering the play. I wrote criticizing this action, believing that destroying the integrity of a work in this manner did not further the educational mission of the school.

I was, therefore, quite heartened by the Townsmen's account of the high school's Project Teamwork. ("Learning tolerance/AHS hosts famous minority athletes," page 1, Jan. 16.)

This is an affirmative response to the reality of multiculturalism and discrimination. It is the kind of forthright approach that I think reflects the values of the community and represents the school at its best.

Tim Thomas and the administration are to be commended for their positive approach.

Standing up for Sue Jenkins

Editor, Townsmen:

This letter is written in regards to a few letters that were recently published in the Andover Townsmen concerning the decision on school redistricting.

I know that this problem is a particularly difficult one, and not everyone can agree on a solution. Many people seem to have different opinions on this subject, and I think it is wonderful that some have written letters to the Townsmen giving good suggestions.

A few other letters, however, did not have any suggestions and were written only to insult certain people. School Committee member Susan Jenkins has borne the brunt of many of these insults merely because she believes strongly that the elementary schools should be redistricted in order to provide more room for crowded schools. I believe that everyone has a right to their own opinion, and they should not be attacked for expressing it.

Susan Jenkins has had a great deal of experience with the school system, having children in both elementary and high school. She has been treasurer of the West Elementary PTO, served as vice chairperson on the Building Needs Committee and has volunteered a large amount of time in the schools. She is well qualified for her job on the School Committee because she knows first-hand the condition of the schools.

Because of this I believe we should listen to and respect whatever she has to say. In the future I would like to hope that only letters with positive suggestions will be written. The town of Andover should come together and cooperate on this issue rather than argue, because whatever decision is made, it will affect us all.

trouble finding a job and taking care of her young child. Now, we have a reader who wishes to remain anonymous who brings money to us at the paper to deliver to the woman. He wanted to make sure at Thanksgiving, for instance, that the woman had enough money for a good meal. That makes us feel like we are fulfilling a need in the community. I favor stories that put people in touch with each other, stories that encourage the community to be a place where people are talking with one another, reaching out to one another and caring about each other.

Sometimes we have to do stories about bad news and those, Andy, make some people angry and make them accuse us of only running bad news on page one. We don't believe that is true because we often run the good-news stories of students making the honor roll, people helping each other and so on. But our job is to be a mirror of the community, and if there is a story that is sad, like the one in today's paper about John Benson, who is in the hospital fighting for his life, we run it. (Actually that's not really completely a bad news story; a bad news story is maybe one about someone who is accused of drunk driving, which we believe is important to publish, too.)

Thank you for asking, Andy. I look forward to reading your report.

I listened to James R. Lilley, United States ambassador to China from 1989 to June of last year, speak at Phillips Academy last Friday evening and I remembered how important it is to hear from and read works from people who have first-hand experience of issues we hear of from a distance.

Mr. Lilley, who was born in China, understands the people in that country. He talked about Tiananmen Square and how he and other Americans there saw it coming. He told us that people in China live much better than those in Russia; the Chinese are clothed, housed and fed. And he said that the Chinese know Americans are watching that country's status with civil rights issues.

The headmaster's symposium, China, continues at PA, and I recommend if you haven't tuned into it, get involved. Sunday, Robert Kiely is speaking about China at Phillips Academy. (See the entertainment pages in today's paper.) His article, "White swan, gray turtle," about a recent trip in China, appears in the last July-August Harvard Magazine, and if he speaks even half as well as he writes, it would be worth going to.

Commitment to family . . .

She is a driving force behind Creative Living Inc., a privately-funded, non-profit home for mentally retarded adults located at 368 S. Main St. She says its vision is of "a safe, loving, family-oriented environment," at which parents can feel safe leaving their mentally retarded son or daughter. The home was started in 1988 to provide "respite care," short-term supervision - week-ends and overnights - to give parents a rest from the constant attention required in caring for someone who is mentally retarded.

"Taking care of a mentally retarded adult is a 24-hour job. Respite provides parents with a breather, allows (them) to go shopping and have a little bit of enjoyment," Ms. Ruggiero said.

Creative Living hosts social events for the mentally retarded every week. There's no fee to attend, except the cost of the actual event, and staff supervision is provided by Creative Living. For example, 30 young adults attended a pizza party a few weeks before Christmas, and each paid $3 for the pizza.

"We roll up the rug once a month for a dance," said Ms. Ruggiero. And the most popular music at the event? "Rock and roll, of course - they love to dance."

These events are publicized through various local day programs for the mentally retarded, fliers and word of mouth. They provide a place for the adults to socialize and have fun, and not worry about feeling out of place or weird, as they would, according to Ms. Ruggiero, in a bar or a "regular club."

"They just want to be cared for," Ms. Ruggiero says. "They're not rapists or stealers - and they can get depressed."

The respite home also teaches clients skills needed for every-day living (ADL) in what Ms. Ruggiero calls a realistic, home-like atmosphere. These daily living skills are the simple tasks of cleaning and getting dressed, eating meals and washing dishes - essentially, the tasks a child who is not mentally retarded learns naturally while growing up. ADL is an exaggeration of the natural learning process, where every interaction made in a household during a normal day is material for a lesson.

Marybeth Pelleri-

on, social director at Creative Living and ADL instructress, says it is much more advantageous for students to learn the skills "hands-on" in a home like Creative Living than in an institutional setting. "If they learn a skill in a program room, they can't translate it to their home. These skills are real-life, rather than simulated skills," said Ms. Pellerion.

Ms. Ruggiero says that ADL is part of teaching mentally retarded adults to be more self-reliant, in preparation for the day the parents are no longer able to care for their needy adult-child. "I have never left Freddy anywhere," Ms. Ruggiero said. "Putting him in an institution was never an option for me, and I want to provide for him now while we're still alive."

According to Ms. Ruggiero, Creative Living fills a need in the community to care for mentally retarded adults on a private, local level.

Funding for Creative Living comes from Classic Threads, a specialty clothing store at 447 Essex St. in Lawrence. Ms. Ruggiero runs the store, and it is staffed by volunteers. All proceeds from the store go directly to Creative Living - well over $100,000 was raised in 1990.

Money is also brought in through private fundraisers - bake sales, "boutiques" (Tupperware-like parties that display Classic Threads merchandise), and other money-makers. "You name it, we've done it," says Ms. Ruggiero.

The "we" is Creative Living's 35-member board of directors, which Ms. Ruggiero describes as "a mix of concerned people and parents." Larry Larsen, town selectman, served as the board's second president from 1988-1990. Don Sorrie of Andover is its present leader. The board convenes on the second Thursday of every month in an open meeting at Creative Living to "help assure continuity" of the home.

But, without funding from the government, they need help. Their dream is to develop Creative Living's five-acre spread into permanent homes, with permanent people, in a permanent environment.

"I want to prepare Freddy for the future," says Ms. Ruggiero. This future she desires is one where her son can exist simply and happily without her.

She remembers the hopeless, abandoned child chained to a door - as though in punishment for his retardation - and still cries angry tears.

This anger has fueled her 45 years of selfless work, caring for the mentally retarded. But, she assures, "They are so dear. You get it all back."

Donations to Creative Living can be made to Creative Living, Inc., P.O. Box 3177, Shawsheen Post Office, Andover, MA 01810.

Andover Country Club may get a tax break

By Don Staruk

The town could lose about 40 percent of the taxes it currently collects on the Andover Country Club's golf course property if and when the club's plan for a 108-lot cluster subdivision is approved.

"It's about a 40 percent loss in taxes, something in that vicinity," William Krajewski, assessor, told the Townsmen Wednesday.

A Planning Board vote on the cluster development is scheduled for this Tuesday night, Jan. 28, at the board's meeting in town offices. It is one of the first items on the agenda. The meeting begins at 7:30 p.m.

The plan would allow the country club's golf course fairways and other open areas to be considered open space in order to allow a cluster development of houses.

At their meeting last week, Planning Board members restated their intention that their allowing the golf course fairways to be counted as open space would not make the land tax exempt, as conservation land usually is. A statement to that effect would be one of the conditions of approval, board members said.

Phillip Sullivan, attorney for Yvon Cormier, owner of the country club, and board members disagreed on whether the tax issue was under the jurisdiction of the board, and wanted an answer from Mr. Krajewski.

Mr. Krajewski said that, as open space, the land would probably fall under Massachusetts General Law chapter 61B, as recreational property, and would be taxed at 25 percent of its value.

The greens and maintenance buildings would still be taxed at 100 percent of their value, with the net result being the approximate 40 loss in tax revenues, Mr. Krajewski said.

Understanding Chiropractic

by Mark F. DeLorenzo, D.C.

UNDERSTANDING THE DISC

A healthy disc acts as a shock-absorbing cushion and space maintainer in the areas between the bones (vertebrae) of the spine. Each has a tough, elastic outer shell which encapsulates a gel-like inner nucleus. Unlike other tissues of the body which receive oxygen and nutrients from the blood, the discs must rely on the squeezing action of joint movement to absorb nutrients from the body fluids that bathe them. Without this free movement of the spinal joints, the discs' health may be compromised. After a prolonged period of impaired spinal mobility, discs tend to become dry and brittle, and a minor twist can lead to rupture (commonly referred to as "slipped" disc). While the final event may be sudden, the process leading up to a ruptured disc is a gradual, degenerative one.

Regular chiropractic care may help to prevent some problems from occurring. If you work at a strenuous or sedentary job or are involved in sports or exercise, call us at DELORENZO CHIROPRACTIC GROUP, 475-5042, for an appointment. Our office is located at 15 Central Street. I am currently serving as president of the Mass. Chiropractic Society.

P.S. Chiropractic helps maintain disc health by aiding free spinal movement.

Mr. Krajewski said that, like all open space, a lien would also be placed against the property for the difference between the full value tax and the open space tax.

That difference would accrue with interest until such a time as the land was sold or had a change of use.

When there is a sale or change of use, the town would get back-taxes with interest, Mr. Krajewski said. The town would also have the option to buy the land.

"The town has 'a hook' in that it has the right of first refusal on it," Mr. Krajewski said.

Boys' ski team starts season with blistering pace on slopes

By Rick Harrison

The M&M Boys, juniors Nate Mullett and Greg Mercer, set a blistering pace down the Bradford Hill slopes as the Andover High boys' ski team launched its 1992 season with three convincing victories over North Shore League rivals Haverhill (81-54), Bishop Fenwick of Peabody (124-11) and Austin Prep of Reading (110-25).

The three-meet sweep left the Golden Warriors tied for first place at 3-0-0.

A fourth meet against Masconomet Regional was postponed to a later date after misinformation left the Chieftains under the impression Bradford was unavailable for the competition.

The Andover girls (1-1-0) also ran into a snag last week when inclement, rainy weather forced postponement of their scheduled tri-meet against Methuen and North Andover.

The boys have a rugged test today as they face Methuen and St. John's Prep, the two-time defending league champ and State runner-up. Masconomet may also jump in to make it a foursome.

The Lady Warriors are back in action tomorrow afternoon at Bradford (3:30 p.m.), racing North Andover and Masconomet in a tri-meet.

Mullett & Mercer

Nate Mullett led the way in the tri-meet sweep of Haverhill and Fenwick, clocking 22.92 to win the race against Fenwick and finish second to Haverhill's Rick Breen (22.29) overall.

The Warriors nailed down the top 10 places against Fenwick, as Mullett was followed across the line by Greg Mercer (2nd), senior Paul Durant (3rd), senior Captain Barrett Elliot (4th), Rich DeAngelis (5th), senior Captain Ted Ratyna (6th), sophomore Bill Schofield (7th), junior Steve Li (8th), Kris Kelmer (9th) and senior Captain Lee Farr (10th).

Fenwick finally broke the string by grabbing the next two places, but rounding out the AHS scorers were John Formichella (13th), freshman Jesse Lugus (14th) and senior Captain Ryan Evans (15th).

Against Haverhill Mercer was third, Durant fourth, Elliot fifth, DeAngelis 10th, Ratyna 11th, Schofield 12th, Li 13th, Kelmer 14th and Farr 15th.

Mercer and Mullett traded places in the dual meet against Austin, the former winning in 23.76 and the latter finishing second in 24.10.

The locals grabbed eight of the top 10 places overall, with Lee Farr fourth in 24.83, Paul Durant fifth (24.91), Ted Ratyna sixth (25.02), Barrett Elliot seventh (25.33), Steve Li ninth (25.40) and Bill Schofield 10th (25.41).

Also scoring were Rich DeAngelis in 11th (25.70), Jesse Lugus 12th (26.87), Ryan Evans 13th (27.29) and Mike McCarthy 14th (27.92).

Andover JVs

The AHS junior varsity got off to a 2-1-0 start, bowing to Haverhill (37-18), blasting Bishop Fenwick (45-10) and belting Austin Prep (44-11).

Against Fenwick Brian Hussey was second, Tom Daily third, Greg Robinson fourth, Adam Vella fifth, Matt Daniels sixth, Tim Sullivan seventh, Scott Savage eighth, Todd Minot ninth and Dave Lipman 10th.

The Haverhill JVs swept the top three places in their meet, with Hussey taking fourth, Daily sixth, Robinson eighth, Vella ninth and Daniels 10th.

Andover earned the top four spots against Austin, with Brian Hussey winning the race (29.49), Tom Daily second (29.79), Bert Vining third (30.79) and Greg Robinson fourth (31.57).

Rounding out the AHS scorers were Scott Sav-

Sean Ryan sidelined Boys' basketball team stretches win streak

By Rick Harrison

For the first time in three years Andover High varsity basketball coach Dave Fazio did not write Sean Ryan's name in the Golden Warriors' scorebook on game day.

Instead of breaking the press, burying three-pointers and swishing clutch free throws, Ryan spent Sunday afternoon on crutches watching his teammates complete a perfect 3-0 week and stretch their win streak through six games with a 53-50 victory over non-league foe Somerville High.

Ryan had suffered a deep bruise to his lower leg late in the previous game, while driving to the basket against Lowell High, and his availability as of last Tuesday was still on a day to day basis.

"When Sean first went down we thought the leg was broken," said Fazio. "Fortunately it wasn't as bad as we feared. But obviously going into the Somerville game without Sean I was concerned about our guard play. It's the first game in my three years here that he hasn't started."

Fazio's apprehension was under standable, but the troops banded together nicely and got the job done.

"Kirk (Stockwood) was outstanding on the point, and Matt Harris filled the No. 2 role by hitting five three-pointers and scoring 20 for the game," said Fazio.

The triumph over Somerville completed a somewhat bizarre but successful week for the Warriors, who earlier chalked up an "ugly" 78-71 victory over Tewksbury and kept Lowell reeling with a 74-60 decision over the staggering Red Raiders.

AHS kept its lofty perch atop the Merrimack Valley Conference Large School Division standings, 7-0 overall and two games ahead of second place Central Catholic and Billerica entering this week's play.

Overall the Warriors are soaring at 9-2.

"This is an important week because we play the two teams that beat us early in the season," noted Coach Fazio.

Andover hosted Methuen Tuesday night, the Rangers owning a 69-63 overtime victory in the opening round of the Greater Lawrence Christmas Festival.

Tomorrow night Central Catholic invades the Dunn Gymnasium for a 7:30 p.m. game that is almost a "must-win" situation for the Red Raiders, who used a brilliant second half to whip AHS 58-46 in the Festival's consolation round.

Fazio, a CCHS graduate, has experienced problems trying to outfox and defeat his high school coach, Dick Licare. An Andover win tomorrow night would go a long way towards clinching the division title.

Sean Ryan leads the team in scoring with 220 points (22.0 average), while Chris Shea has 162 points (16.2) and Kevin Ring 98.

Andover, 53-50

"Beating Somerville was a great win for the program," said Fazio.

"With Sean out we needed a few different players to step out and take charge. In addition to Kirk and Matt, Chris Lembo at the off-guard and Mike Pettoruto at forward came through with strong defensive efforts. Holding Somerville to 50 points was impressive."

The game was close from start to finish, Andover leading 27-24 at half-time, and with 50 seconds left the Warriors were ahead by one (51-50) and had possession of the basketball.

Chris Shea was fouled with 10 seconds left, and he calmly converted both ends of the 1-and-1 to establish the final three-point margin.

Somerville, 7-5 after the loss, took a desperation three-point shot at the buzzer.

"I felt we did an excellent job of controlling the tempo," said Coach Fazio. "We didn't want things moving too fast without Sean."

Matt Harris's 20 points were easily the most he's scored in a game this season.

Shea tossed in 13 points, Kevin Ring hit doubles again with 10, and rounding out the attack with five points each were junior forward Mark Lastrina and sophomore guard Stockwood.

Ring pulled down nine rebounds, Shea six, and Stockwood passed out six assists.

Andover, 74-60

It was ironic that Ryan's injury occurred against Lowell at the Abraham Gym.

Sean's father, Charlie, was LHS boys' varsity coach for many years and Sean grew up honing his shooting skills on that same court before, during and after Red Raider practices.

Lowell, after a 4-1 start this season, lost for the fourth time in six games as AHS forged a 34-29 halftime lead and slowly pulled away in the second half.

"Chris Shea and Sean had outstanding games and we were in control pretty much the whole way," stated Fazio. "We continued our good team play, running the offense, moving the ball around and changing defenses."

This was Fazio's second win over Lowell since coming to Andover, but the game wasn't without incident.

"There was a little hustle and bustle," said Fazio, referring to what was actually little more than a shoving match but could have turned serious. Both benches emptied but cooler heads quickly prevailed. No one was hurt and no one was tossed from the game.

Shea led the way with 23 points,

Lady hoopsters fight flu and tough opponents

By Rick Harrison

Fighting two tough opponents and the flu bug that has weakened several key players in recent days, the Andover High girls' varsity basketball team managed to remain on course with impressive victories over Tewksbury and Lowell.

After sleepwalking through the first few minutes against Tewksbury, the Lady Warriors recovered in time to register a 49-38 triumph.

They took a different route against Lowell, building a big lead early and then hanging on for a 53-47 win that jumped them past the Red Raiders into second place in the Large School Division of the Merrimack Valley Conference.

The sweep extended Andover's win streak through six straight games, as Coach George Sullivan's Sweet Shooters improved to 6-1 in league play and 8-2 overall.

Only undefeated Haverhill, the rematch lurking on the schedule February 4, is above AHS in the standings (6-0 MVC, 9-0 overall).

"I think we may be the only team with a chance to beat Haverhill," admitted Sullivan, whose club is better than the one the Hillies rocked 60-37 in the season opener December 17. "But we'll have to be playing well that night to do it."

Meanwhile, to remain in solid contention, Andover had to beat nemesis Methuen (8-3) earlier this week. The Rangers, Small School Division leaders once again, have owned the Lady Warriors in recent years.

Tomorrow night Sullivan's Sweet Shooters hit the road, stepping out of league play to battle a North Reading team that is 10-2 and poised to take over first place in the Cape Ann League. Gametime at Hornet

High is 7:30 p.m.

Next week the locals are at Lawrence High on Tuesday night (6 p.m.), and home for another non-leaguer against Bishop Fenwick Saturday afternoon (3 p.m.).

Grace Perry tops the scoring parade with 108 points, Lindsey Sweeney has 91, Kerry Hagerty 88 and Zahia Kattar 74.

Andover, 49-38

The Tewksbury game got off to a disastrous start, Andover scoring the first basket and then turning colder than the weather for the next six minutes.

Hussey scores 16 points for freshman girls' basketball

The Andover High freshman girls' basketball team entered this week riding the crest of a perfect 7-0 record, with recent victories over Tewksbury (35-25) and Lowell (36-33) keeping the slate clean.

Ann Marie Hussey powered the Tewksbury triumph with 16 points, Amanda Verrault added seven points, Maura Paone five free throws, Beth Cummings 13 rebounds, Jen Griffin six steals and Amy Baker six steals.

Maura Paone's five points at crunch time keyed the win over Lowell.

Ann Marie Hussey tossed in 13 points and Beth Cummings nine, while top defensive efforts came from Amanda Verrault and Jen Griffin.

Through seven games Hussey led the team in scoring with 75 points, and she also had 52 rebounds.

Beth Cummings boasted 51 points and

The Andover High frosh boys split two games last week, drilling Tewksbury 47-31 before losing for the first time to Lowell, 57-54.

Overall Coach Paul Willis's team is 6-1.

Eric Danis tossed in nine points and Brian Marshall added eight for Andover to lead the win over Tewksbury.

In the loss to Lowell, Danis once again led the attack with 17 points, Matt Gibson pocketed 15, and strong defensive efforts came from Paul Cassidy and Brian Marshall.

Tewksbury's McGrath frustrates Warriors in hockey rink

By Rick Harrison

Sometimes it just doesn't pay to go to the rink.

The Andover High hockey team sailed into its recent Merrimack Valley Conference Small School showdown with seven-time defending champ Tewksbury on the wings of a 6-0 shutout victory over non-league foe Malden High.

The Redmen, on the other hand, had been beaten by Central Catholic in their previous game and were in definite jeopardy of falling three points behind the front-running Golden Warriors.

For 45 minutes the Golden Warriors threw howitzer shots left and right at the Tewksbury net, averaging more than one a minute. But, amazingly, all 47 pucks came back as veteran senior goaltender Rob McGrath played like Patrick Roy, Grant Fuhr, Tom Barrasso and Andy Moog all wrapped up in one neat little package.

Time-and-again he stoned the Warriors, who left the rink in second place following a frustrating 2-0 loss.

"I get around to a lot of games, and McGrath has to be one of the best goalkeepers in the state," said Andover Coach Bill Cullen. "I thought we played awfully well. In fact, I don't know if we can play any better. Our kids moved the puck well, took good shots and did all the right things. But the bottom line is McGrath came up big."

That loss followed on the heels of a shutout by AHS senior goalie Mike Daley, who backstopped a 6-0 non-league triumph over Malden High.

The split left the Warriors at 6-4-1 overall, including 3-3-1 in the league where they entered this week one point behind Tewksbury and one ahead of Methuen. However, both those teams have two games in hand.

Andover was scheduled to play at Haverhill last night, where they will have encountered another strong goaltender (Matt Favalora), and Saturday they step out of MVC play again to host Revere at Merrimack College's Volpe Complex (4:45 p.m.).

Andover, 6-0

While Mike Daley was stopping all 12 shots by the Golden Tornadoes, who have won just twice this season, his teammates were forging a 4-0 first period lead.

Sophomore left wing Doug Lottatore, the first of six different goalscorers for the balanced AHS sextet, made it 1-0 with his third goal of the season just 1:18 into the game. Linemates Bobby Daley and Chris Pothier picked up assists on the only goal necessary.

Pothier contributed his sixth goal, unassisted, at 8:14, and before the period was over Malden netminder Tom Knox had been beaten by senior right wing Steve Neal (11:39) and first-liner Bill Owens (14:16).

Senior left wing Brian Jones and senior center Jamie Himber set up Neal's first varsity goal, while Owens' eighth of the campaign saw junior Doug Batchelder pick up his first varsity point with an assist.

Andover outshot the Golden Tornadoes 18-3 in that first stanza, and went on to finish with a wide 50-12 spread as Knox made 44 stops.

Wrapping up the offense with third-period goals, 46 seconds apart at 3:17 and 4:03, were Bobby Daley (fourth) and Mike Mazza.

Chris Pothier helped on Daley's goal, while Mazza's was assisted by "Munchkin Line" forwards Ryan Moynihan and Scott Munroe.

Each member of the Three-M line (Mazza, Moynihan and Munroe) also chalked up his first varsity point.

"We went to the net well and everyone got a chance to play," said Cullen. Tewksbury, 2-0

"McGrath played like this a couple times earlier this year, against Austin Prep (3-3 tie) and Methuen (40 saves in 3-1 victory)," said Cullen. "It's tough to outshoot a team 47-19 and come up empty."

Redmen rearguard Anthony Lodi's first goal of the season, unassisted on the power-play, snapped a scoreless tie at 9:13 of the middle period.

Bob Sharkey provided the insurance, assist to sophomore center Don Bibb, at 6:35 of the third session.

The Golden Warriors outshot Tewksbury, 4-1-0 league and 5-3-1 overall after this game, by 10-7, 20-6 and 17-6 period margins.

"McGrath did OK, didn't he!" said Redmen Coach Don Ciampa. "I even gave him the next day off."

"The shots are deceiving," continued the Redmen skipper. "We weren't badly outplayed, but we were massacred with penalties (nine minors) and forced to go with two defensemen most of the last two periods."

Coach Cullen lauded the play of the Neal-Himber-Jones line, and the work of Bobby Sheehan in his first game back following a hip injury.

Mike Daley also played well with 17 saves.

AHS track teams battle Phillips, but not hard enough

By Rick Harrison

If this was any indication, crosstown rivals Andover High and Phillips Academy should get together at least once a week for a track meet.

Both the boys' and girls' squads staged exciting battles before PA walked away with a sweep, the Phillips boys winning a wafer-thin one-point decision, 49-48, and the prep school girls escaping with an equally hard-fought 63-52 victory.

Alvirne High of Hudson, N.H. also participated in the tri-meet, placing third in both divisions to provide Andover with a pair of victories. The Alvirne boys scored 20 points and the girls managed just three.

Earlier this week the Andover teams returned to the MVC wars and swept past North Reading, the boys winning 59-27 and the girls 52-34.

Those results left the AHS boys at 6-2-0 overall, 5-1-0 as a Merrimack Valley Conference title challenger, and the Lady Warriors at 4-3-0 overall and 3-2-0 league.

It marked the season opener for PA, and both teams are now 2-0-0.

The Andover girls also competed in the State Coaches Invitational at Harvard University last weekend, but managed to score in just one event as the mile relay team of Holly Clark, Stacy Lavoie, Sarah Witman and Layne Whitley finished sixth.

AHS began heading down the 1992 home stretch earlier this week, both boys and girls facing North Reading in MVC dual meets.

Saturday Coach Art Iworsley's teams will again be headed in two directions.

The upperclass athletes will journey to Lowell High for the annual Northern Area Meet (12:30 p.m.), while the 9th and 10th graders travel to M.I.T. in Cambridge to compete in the annual Auerbach Freshman-Sophomore Developmental Meet (12 noon).

Next Monday afternoon Masconomet Regional of Topsfield provides the MVC opposition at the Methuen High Field House (3:30 p.m.).

Andover boys

Several factors combined to work against an Andover victory in the boys' meet.

Alvirne's triumph in the high jump, and a slight hesitation by an Andover trackman in one of the races, proved crucial in the tough loss.

Had Broncos' double winner Al Graves not captured the high jump it would have gone to Steve Shepard, with the extra two points enough to boost the Warriors past PA.

The runner's hesitation, understandable and forgivable as he glanced over his shoulder to check the condition of another competitor who had fallen, cost valuable time and resulted in a tie for third place instead of undisputed possession of that spot.

In addition the Golden Warriors were shorthanded, undefeated State class hurdler Jason McCue previously committed to a family trip to Florida.

And then there was the mysterious finish of hurdler Jon Cirella ...

"We thought Jon was third," said Iworsley, "but when the officials listed the places they had him sixth. That was the way they saw it and there was nothing we could do."

Because it was a tri-meet the top four places were scored on a 5-3-2-1 basis, and unlike MVC meets the athletes were allowed to participate in more than one running and one field event. Versatile Steve Shepard, for example, scored in four events and Brian Twomey ran both the mile and two-mile for Andover.

After the tough loss Iworsley joined PA Coach John Strudwick in proclaiming it one of the most thrilling meets in many years.

The Andover boys placed first in four events, individual victories by senior Captain Jamie Damon in the 50 yard dash (5.6), senior Jason Hastings in the 300 dash (36.5) and junior Steve Shepard in the long jump (20'11").

Shepard, who won the long jump on his final leap, had an excellent 12-point afternoon after adding a second in the high jump (5'10"), second in the 50-yard hurdles (6.8) and tie for third in the 300 dash (36.7).

Boys' gymnasts defeat PA

By Rick Harrison

The fledgling Andover High boys' gymnastics team took a giant step forward when it beat crosstown rival Phillips Academy in last weekend's non-league dual meet.

"PA was a good turning point for us," agreed Coach Steve Sirois. "It's going to boost our confidence."

The Golden Warriors had dropped both ends of two North Shore League tri-meets prior to facing Phillips, most recently scoring 85.70 to finish third against Attleboro High (102.10) and Newton North (98.10).

So the Big Blue were just what the doctor ordered as first place finishes by freshman Bob Ellis (floor exercise), freshman Scott Nicholson (rings), junior Tadg Corkery (pommel horse) and sophomore Chris Sintros (parallel bars) sparked AHS to a 91.05 to 80.95 non-league triumph at the Dunn Gymnasium.

"The young kids did it for us," said Coach Sirois. "The freshmen and sophomores were the big scorers."

The young Warriors are taking their lumps now, with a 1-4-0 overall record and 0-3-0 league ledger. But they should be dynamite the next two years.

"Every team we've faced so far has one big gun," explained Sirois. "But they're all seniors ready to graduate."

That means Andover's turn is coming soon.

"Our biggest goal this season, win or lose, is to score 100 points in a meet," said Sirois.

The Andover boys return to NSL tri-meet action Saturday evening at 5 p.m. when they host Revere and Reading High in their final appearance at the Dunn Gymnasium. Next Tuesday begins a season-ending stretch of four straight road meets, as the Warriors journey to Braintree High to face the host team and Londonderry, N.H. (4 p.m.).

Andover-PA

Chris Sintros placed among the top three in three events to pace the Andover effort.

Sintros won the parallel bar competition with a 4.55 score, took third on the high bar (3.5) and third on the still rings (4.35).

Bob Ellis captured floor with a 6.15, Tadg Corkery scored 4.7 to win on the horse, and Scott Nicholson registered a 5.1 on rings.

Sweeps were accomplished on the horse, rings and parallel bars.

Sophomore Joe Shea was second (4.65) and sophomore Jeff Feinberg third (4.45) on the horse, freshman Paul DeFranco (4.85) and Sintros 2-3 on rings, and completing the P-bars sweep were sophomore Matt Fenton and senior Co-Capt. Matt McClune with identical 4.05 scores.

McClune added a second on the high bar (3.6), sophomore Nick Zammuto was second in vaulting (7.75) and third in floor (5.45), and freshman Jeff Arsenault took third in vaulting (7.5).

Darrell Cohen of PA was the meet's lone double winner, placing first in vaulting (7.95) and on the high bar (4.8). Dan Hatfield was the only other Phillips gymnast to crack the top three, finished second in floor (6.0).

Andover did not enter an all-around competitor. "Chances are we won't have an all-around in any meet," said Coach Sirois. "We have a lot of kids and I want to give them all a chance to compete."

Andover swept

Bob Ellis highlighted the Warriors' effort against non-league Attleboro and North Shore rival Newton North, winning the vault with a flashy 8.2 score.

Earning third places for AHS were Nick Zammuto on floor (6.0), Jeff Feinberg on pommel horse (3.9), Chris Sintros on parallel bars (4.3) and Scott Nicholson on rings (4.9).

Sintros also performed well on rings, high bar (3.0) and in vaulting, while Zammuto was strong on high bar and in vaulting. Tadg Corkery (3.5) and junior Andy Debenedictis did well on the horse, Matt Fenton and sophomore Scott Gray on P-bars, Paul DeFranco on rings and Ellis on the high bar.

"I think we can chalk up the overall performance in this meet to nervousness," said Coach Sirois. "It was our first away meet. It can be pretty scary and intimidating when you compete at a different school for the first time. Especially for a young team."

Lady gymnasts post victory over Lowell

By Rick Harrison

One step closer to the Merrimack Valley Conference championship.

That's where the Andover High girls' gymnastics' team moved following a 124.50 to 96.55 romp past the visiting Lowell High girls.

There was no letdown after big wins over Dracut and Chelmsford, as freshman Marcie Lutsch again placed first in two events and junior Anne Milmoie earned all-around honors with a 31.10.

Coach Julie Curtis juggled the lineup ever-so-slightly to get several other competitors some experience under pressure.

"It was a good meet for us considering our top guns were entered in only two events each," said Coach Curtis. "The score was still pretty high and that shows the kind of depth we have this year."

The victory boosted Andover's perfect record to 4-0, including 3-0-0 in the MVC, as they faced crosstown foe Phillips Academy earlier this week in a non-league dual.

Tomorrow afternoon the tough and talented Lady Warriors figure to make short work of Wilmington in a league meet at the Dunn Gymnasium (4 p.m.), and next Tuesday Billerica comes to town for the final home meet of the season (4 p.m.).

Magnificent Marcie

Once again Magnificent Marcie Lutsch performed her magic as she put together first place routines on the uneven bars (8.7) and balance beam (8.3).

Senior Tri-Captain Tania Pierce continued her string of consistently excellent performances, Tania Terrific grabbing a first in vaulting (8.15) and second on bars (8.25).

Freshman Irene Shui was a dynamic and graceful floor exercise winner, scoring 8.3, and she was also part of a three-way tie for second in vaulting with a 7.95.

Spectacular Tri-Captain Kasie Kearins shared second in vaulting (7.95) and tied for fourth on her favorite piece of apparatus, the balance beam.

Anne Milmoie did it all for the Lady Warriors, achieving her 31.10 with an 8.15 for second place on the beam, 7.95 for a second place tie in vaulting, 7.8 for second place in floor, and 7.2 for fourth on bars.

"The floor scores were low for everyone," said Coach Curtis. "The performances were all first-rate. It was just one of those times when the judges weren't giving the high scores."

Senior Alicia Dennehy strengthened her hold on the Most Improved Gymnast award, placing third on beam (6.85) and third in vaulting (7.4).

Senior Tri-Captain Sarah Faraci was third on bars with a 7.6, and statuesque junior Amanda Schaake registered a 7.4 en route to fourth place in floor.

Sophomore Amy Espindle, vaulting for the first time competitively in a high school meet, came through with a solid 7.15.

Senior Nationals

It is expected both Kasie Kearins and Tania Pierce will be among the few elite girl gymnasts in Massachusetts to be considered for the team that will represent this state in the prestigious annual Senior Nationals at the University of Maryland in early April.

The team will consist of either four or six girls, who must be seniors, and it will be selected after the State Team and Individual Championships.

Jason Fox of Andover was chosen for the Massachusetts boys' team two years ago.

Only the best of the best are picked, and among the other MVC gymnasts expected to be evaluated are Dracut's dynamic duo of Tammy Noel and Paula Cronk, Methuen's Robin Beeley and Chelmsford's Lisa Fabbri.

14 in the first half, and Ryan added 21 including 14 after the break.

Kevin Ring pocketed 12 points, Kirk Stockwood seven, Matt Harris four, Mike Pettoruto two, Chris Lembo and Mark Lastrina two free throws each, and junior guard Wayne Mattola one charity.

Ring added 10 rebounds, Shea six, Lastrina six, Ryan distributed six assists and Harris played a strong floor game.

Jim Borodawka was game-high for Lowell with 25.

Andover, 78-71

Despite the fact Sean Ryan poured through 31 points against Tewksbury, including a smoldering 14-for-16 (88 per cent) at the free throw line, this one was not an artistic success.

"It wasn't very pretty," admitted Fazio, "but we got the win and that's what counts. We got up big (40-24 at halftime), but then we became a little sloppy and disinterested."

Tewksbury, which beat St. John's Prep and has been competitive all season despite a 3-7 record, closed to within three points in the second half before Ryan took charge. He netted 20 of his 31 after intermission and was 12-for-13 at the stripe in the second half.

Chris Shea delivered 19 points and eight rebounds, Mark Lastrina netted 10 points, Mike Pettoruto six, Matt Harris five, Kirk Stockwood four and Kevin Ring three.

Ring had seven rebounds, Ryan five assists and Stockwood five assists.

West Parish b'ball team is unbeaten

The West Parish girls' intermediate basketball team remains undefeated to date.

In game four versus St. Robert's A, West Parish won 22-4. Sarah Muller had 10 points and Shannon Breen and Charlotte Muller had six points each. The defense of Charlotte Chandler, Courtney Sullivan and Monica Turbett limited St. R's scoring ability.

West Parish beat St. Robert B 44-12 on Dec. 12. Charlotte Muller had 14 points, Viki Pierce 12, Sarah Muller 7, Shannon Breen six, Julie Litzenberger and Lindsey Pearson two each and Courtney Sullivan, a one-point free throw. Defense was strong with great work by Sarah Morrison and Charlotte Chandler.

West Parish had a difficult first half in a Jan. 19 game with South Church but broke away in the second half for their sixth consecutive win with a final score of 31-8. Charlotte Muller had 15 points, Julie Litzenberger six, Sarah Muller four and Monica Turbett and Shannon Breen two each. Sarah Morrison scored two points on her free shots. Courtney Sullivan led West with four steals, Julie Litzenberger captured 12 rebounds and Monica Turbett and Shannon Breen had five apiece.

St. Augustine A captures top spot in senior division

By Rick Harrison

St. Augustine A played an almost perfect first half, catching favored St. Augustine B off guard while taking a 13-point lead, and the underdog then held on for a gutsy 27-21 victory in the showdown battle for first place in the Senior Division (7th-8th grade) of the Andover Church Basketball League.

Both teams entered the game undefeated, but when it was over SAA stood alone at 4-0 while SAB fell a half-game behind at 4-1.

There was no rest for the division leaders, however, as they had to come back earlier this week and battle co-runnerup St. Robert's (3-1).

In other recent ACBL Senior action at Andover High, St. Augustine D trimmed Ballardvale United 30-18 and St. Augustine C made it a sweep for that church with a 23-17 conquest of Faith Lutheran.

This Sunday's schedule at AHS features St. Robert's vs. Ballardvale United at 2 p.m., St. Augustine C vs. St. Augustine D at 3 p.m., and St. Augustine A vs. Faith Lutheran at 4 p.m.

Jon Adams of St. Robert's continues as the runaway leader in the Senior scoring parade with 66 points. He is followed by Lee Baron of St. Augustine D with 37, Ted Witman of St. Robert's 35, Will Cohen and Jeff Danis of St. Augustine B with 33 and 32 respectively, and Todd Wilson of Faith Lutheran with 32.

St. Augustine A, 27-21

The division's top defensive team prevailed over the most prolific offensive squad, as SAA's flawless start forged a 20-7 lead that SAB couldn't overcome.

Patrick Hess and Mark Langone held their own on the boards against taller St. Augustine B, while Dan Gosselin and Jason Nicholson played excellent floor games.

Jeff Danis was the lone SAB player on his game, hitting several nice inside shots.

St. Augustine B's bench strength started to take its toll on SAA in the second half, as the deficit was trimmed to 22-14 after three quarters, but St. Augustine A had enough to hold on for the impressive triumph.

Langone led the balanced SAA attack with 8 points, Ernie Dascoli netted 6, Gosselin and Hess 5 apiece, Cory Bishop 2 and Nicholson a free throw.

Nolan Pelletier and Adam Tripi also played well for the winners.

Danis was game-high for SAB with 9 points, Mike Couture and Charlie Russo pocketed 3 each, and single field goals were contributed by Scott Callanan, Erik DeMarco and Luis Dominguez.

St. Augustine A held a slim 10-9 edge in floor shots, but the victors also went 7-for-14 at the free throw line to just 3-for-8 by SAB.

In its first four games St. Augustine A yielded just 57 points, a 14.3 average, while St. Augustine B scored 173 points in five games for a 34.6 average.

St. Augustine C, 23-17

Trailing 15-14 following three quarters of seesaw action, St. Augustine C rode the late heroics of Chris Rogers and Sergio Laudani to its first victory of the season.

Rogers finished the game with 10 points, including two key baskets down the stretch when SAC went on a 9-2 run to pull it out.

Laudani added 5 points, three in the closing rush, and Ron Hajj tossed through 6 points. Jeff Scaia completed the attack with a basket.

Also playing well for St. Augustine C were Vandan Kandhi and Jacob O'Leary.

Todd Wilson's inside game kept Faith Lutheran in the lead until the fourth stanza, and he finished with 9 points.

Roger Foltz contributed 4 points, John Chen 2 and Luke Pearson 2.

Craig Hartwell and Aaron Lafond were other Lutheran standouts.

St. Augustine D, 30-18

The winners rode a 15-4 second-quarter burst, led by Lee Baron, Andy Parker and Andy Ravens, to the victory over defending Senior champ Ballardvale United.

Baron scored in every period en route to a 15-point performance, delivering on several fast-break layups.

SAD was aided by the addition of Ravens, who netted 7 points, at the guard position.

Parker, who pocketed 6 points, did most of his operating inside.

Jeff DeAngelo chipped in a second-quarter bucket, while Joe Hogarty and Josh Murphy also played hard for the winners.

Ballardvale's big men had cold shooting days, which prevented the game from being closer.

Eric Froburg tossed in 6 points for BU, Elvis DeLaRosa had 4, Mike Orlandella 2, Tim Kearns 2, Joel Elzweig 2 and Eric Dubasak a pair of free throws.

Jay Harmon and Brad McCue were other Ballardvale standouts.

Lady hoopsters fight flu and opponents

"We were stone cold. Couldn't hit anything and fell behind 15-2 before we started to get it in gear," noted Sullivan, flu ridden himself last weekend. "We put together a streak just before the half and closed within three points (21-18) at the break."

Senior guards Melissa "Silk" McNamara and Grace "Slick" Perry were again the catalysts with their aggressive defense, applying a press that produced numerous bad passes picked off underneath by senior centers Stephanie Kupa and Amy O'Sullivan.

Junior forward Kerry Hagerty began taking the ball to the basket and the once-huge lead shrunk.

The second half belonged to Andover, which outscored the Redgals 31-17 behind the sharpshooting of Hagerty (10 points), Perry (seven) and O'Sullivan (four).

"We ran them on offense and dug in hard on defense," said Sullivan, whose club took the lead for good with seven minutes to play. "Z Kattar holding (Amy) Bearegard to just 11 points was a big key for us, along with the great play of Kerry Hagerty who has unlimited potential."

Hagerty led the way with 14 points, nine rebounds and eight defensive plusses.

"She was diving all over the place again," laughed Sullivan. "She has the greatest floor burns since DeeDee Castagnoli."

Grace Perry added 11 points and numerous steals, while junior guard Lindsey Sweeney tossed in eight points despite being saddled with the flu.

Tri-Captain Zahia Kattar had seven points and eight boards, Tri-Captain Amy O'Sullivan four points, 10 rebounds and Stephanie Kupa three points, 10 rebounds.

Melissa McNamara netted two points and ignited the tenacious 'D,' while other standouts were junior guard Amy Cassidy, sophomore center Carrie Green and junior forward Erinne Sullivan.

Andover, 53-47

Lowell entered this game undefeated in MVC play (4-0) and buoyed by the home crowd, but the Lady Warriors changed that quickly.

Sullivan's Sweet Shooters raced to a 27-14 halftime lead, then withstood a gritty Red Raider comeback that saw the advantage sliced to just two points with 2:20 play.

"But we woke up and got the lead back to 10 pretty quickly," said Sullivan. "Grace (Perry) was hot at the free throw line down the stretch (eight charities) and Kerry Hagerty had seven points."

Andover managed despite the fact No. 1 point-guard Lindsey Sweeney played little because of the flu. The result was 25 turnovers perpetrated mainly by cat-quick Lowell guard Toppie Baccam who continually stole the ball.

Grace Perry again led the way with 16 points, 12 of them in the second half and 10-of-14 from the free throw line. "Grace went crazy defensively in the second half, stealing the ball and taking it to the hole," said Sullivan.

Stephanie Kupa, who pocketed 10 first-half points, finished with 14 in the historic first double-figure performance of her career. She also ripped down 10 rebounds.

Kerry Hagerty was the third player in twin digits with 11 points, and she added seven defensive plusses.

Zahia Kattar contributed six points and seven rebounds, Amy O'Sullivan six points, and strong defensive efforts were produced by Melissa McNamara and junior guard Tara Griffin.

Baccam finished with 24 points and Leah Green had 11 to pace Lowell (4-1 MVC, 6-3 overall).

Both teams finished with 17 field goals, but Andover won it at the free throw line where it held a 19-13 edge.

Andover JVs

Coach Debbie Deacon's AHS junior varsity split two games last week and now stands 3-4 overall.

In a convincing 58-34 romp over Tewksbury Marcia Gemmell was immense with 25 points, Tara Griffin added 14 points and Jessica Tobin five.

Leah Mason, Mandy Wilson and Tobin were also strong off the boards, while Griffin ignited the defensive effort.

Warriors swim past PA

Andover High's men's varsity swim team swept the Phillips Academy junior varsity squad 98-82 at the PA pool. Swimming without mainstays Matt Liberty and Chris Blongiewicz, the Golden Warriors still managed to bring their season record to 4-0.

Freshman Adam Schoen and senior co-captain Matt Jennings were quadruple winners, taking two individual events and swimming on two winning relays.

Adam Robb, Tim Connors, co-capt. Chris DeMartino and Greg Davie finished second in the 200-yard medley relay with Dave Mazin, Nathan Winters, Ben Mazin and Dave Bevacqua third.

Schoen's first victory came in the 200-yard freestyle in sectional qualifying time. Bevacqua was third and Brad Litchfield fourth.

Robb won the 200-yard individual medley in a personal best sectional qualifying time with Connors third and Davie fourth. Jennings won the 50 free with Tom Bonier fifth.

Dave Burke earned his second state qualifying score by placing second in the diving competition. Ian Sakowich was third and Greg Litchfield fifth.

The 100-yard butterfly race was close until the last length with DeMartino pulled away for the victory. Ben Mazin was third and Robb fourth in nearly identical times.

Mayberry took the 100 free with Sharma second and Davie third while Schoen made state cuts in the 500 free in his first shot at the event this season. Brad Litchfield and Bevacqua swam stroke for stroke in the 500 until Litchfield out touched Bevacqua for third as both recorded seasonal best times.

Jennings, Davie, Schoen and Mayberry captured the 200 free relay with Burke, Winters, Ben Mazin and Brad Litchfield third. Jennings took the 100-yard backstroke in a state time with Mayberry second with sectional cuts. Ben Mazin was fifth.

Connors came on strong in the final length of the 100-yard breaststroke to take first with Winters fourth and Sharma fifth. Bevacqua, Robb, Schoen and Jennings took first honors in the 400 free relay with Brad Litchfield, DeMartino, Sharma and Mayberry runners-up.

The Golden Warrior Wave meets Nashua, N.H., Monday at the Greater Lawrence Technical School pool at 3:30 p.m. The public is invited.

Bantams win two

The Andover Bantam A hockey team won two games this weekend upping their record to 28-7-2.

Andover 4 - Wakefield 3

In a hard-fought battle with the Wakefield Bantams, the Andover Warriors forged out a 4-3 victory. The locals came from behind after trailing 2-0 after a minute and a half of play. Andover tied the score before the first period ended. Each team scored once in the middle period and the game entered the final period tied at 3-3. Due in part to some solid goaltending by Peter Afarian, Andover was able to hold Wakefield off the scoreboard throughout the third period and score once for the win. Ryan Moynihan had a hand in all four goals, scoring two and assisting on the other two.

After trailing early, he scored on a long wrist shot set up by a drop pass from left-winger Dan Hansberry. Two minutes later, Hansberry converted on a snap shot from inside the left face-off circle after taking a nice pass from Moynihan, to tie the score 2-2.

AHS track teams battle Phillips Academy

The other Andover victory came in the mile (4:44.0) relay where junior Colin Arsenault, junior Jon Cirella, Hastings and Captain Mike Giaimo flashed across in 3:47.4.

Other AHS runners-up, in addition to Shepard, were senior sprinter Jim Landry in the 50 dash (5.7), Damon in the 300 dash (36.6), freshman sensation Matt Ely in the 1000 yard run (2:35.5), junior Brian Twomey in the 2-mile (10:39.8) and Arsenault in the 600 run (1:19.5). Landry's performance indicates he is back to 100 per cent after six months of broken ankle and mononucleosis miseries.

Arsenault and PA's Alex McCollom waged a torrid struggle in their race, McCollom prevailing by a split-second (1:19.4) in a photo finish.

Ely gave former Central Catholic distance standout Creaghan Trainor, a Phillips post-graduate four years Ely's senior, a scare in the 1000 where Trainor was clocked in 2:35.1.

Brian Twomey completed a tough double (mile-deuce) by also placing third in the mile (4:52.0).

Mike Giaimo was third in the 600 run (1:22.4), junior J.P. Ciruso third in the shot put (41'4"), and junior Peter Murphy was part of the four-way tie for third in the 300 dash (36.7).

Senior Captain Jeremy Roux earned a point as the lone Andover fourth-place finisher in the mile (5:03.0).

Creaghan Trainor, who also won the mile in 4:49.0, and Alvirne's Graves who threw the shot 46'1" and high jumped 6'0" were the only double winners.

Andover girls

The Lady Warriors boasted four winners, sophomore Stacy Lavoie in the 50-yard hurdles (7.5), senior Captain Jill Ippolito in the 50 yard dash (6.4), junior Heather Holmender in the 1000 run (3:06.0), and the awesome mile relay foursome of senior Captain Holly Clark, Lavoie, sophomore Sarah Witman and senior Captain Layne Whitley (4:27.3).

The busy Clark was also second in two events and added a fourth as well, placing runner-up in the hurdles (7.5), the 600 run (1:34.9) and fourth in the 50 dash (6.8).

Ippolito contributed a second in the long jump (16'4"), Witman in the 300 dash (41.9), Holmender in the mile (5:55.0) and junior Ellen Sullivan in the deuce (12:28.0).

netminder's leg pads for a 3-2 lead. However, less than a minute later, Wakefield answered with a goal and tied the game.

With 3:02 left in the game, a Wakefield defenseman took an interference penalty and the Warriors took advantage. Passes from Scott Munroe and Moynihan sent winger Chris Cullen in alone to deke the goalie and slide the puck through the "five hole" for the winning goal with just 1:42 remaining in the game. Peter Volpe, Ryan Jacobson, Brian Kwon and Jeff Hesenius came up big during the final 1:42 to kill an Andover penalty and deny Wakefield the tying goal, securing the victory for the Blue and Gold.

Andover 11 - Tewksbury 2

The Andover Bantams broke open a close game with a seven-goal outburst in the third period after leading by a 4-2 score after two periods. Ryan Moynihan had four goals and three assists and Jeff Pothier had the three-goal "hat trick." Scoring single goals were Peter Volpe, Matt Adessa, Ryan Jacobson and defenseman Matt Johnson. Dan Hansberry had four assists, Peter Volpe and Marc Escott, two each and Brian Kwon, Dana DiFiore, and Matt Adessa, one each. David Bailey and Mike Dalton played strong defensive games. Peter Afarian had a solid game in net.

Attention story writers

The Townsmen is grateful for the stories about sporting events many Andover residents write for the sports section.

However, many sports stories are sent to the newspaper without a name and phone number, which the paper needs in case there is a question.

Also, the name of the team and the sport should be mentioned early in the story.

John Colangeli is listed as top-rank skier

Coca-Cola Jr. NASTAR (National Standard Race) has awarded an Andover resident third place among Massachusetts' 14-year-old skiers. John Colangeli received the ranking because of his outstanding ski racing performance during the 1990-91 ski season, according to NASTAR Commissioner Bob Beattie.

Skating at Loon Mountain, N.H., John, now 5, son of John and Barbara Colangeli of 1 Acropolis Circle, posted a personal season-best handicap of 57.

A handicap is the percentage difference between a skier's race time and that of the fastest NASTAR racer in the country. U.S. Ski Team member Nate Bryan. John's handicap means he raced within 57 percent of Bryan.

"John has already proven to be one of the best young skiers in the state," said Dennis Agee, U.S. Skiing's alpine program director. "Coca-Cola Jr. NASTAR exposes young skiers to the thrill of racing and may very well be shaping the future of American ski racing."

Coca-Cola Jr. NASTAR ranks the top 10 boys and girls in six age categories in all 50 states.

The top-ranked skiers are listed on special rankings posters and receive a state leader patch, and a certificate of achievement. First-place winners also win a pair of ISI sunglasses.

John has competed in the Andover Buddy Werner League since he was 2 years old.

John's 18-year-old sister, Jen, is a freshman at the University of Vermont and was a top skier in the Andover High School league for four years, competing at the state level for two years. She won numerous awards in the local Buddy Werner and Merrimack Valley leagues and competed twice in the Bay State games.

Christine, John's 21-year-old sister, manages NASTAR racers at Mt. Mansfield, in Stowe, Vt., and attends U.V.M. She was the state champion for the Maine private schools in 1990 while she attended Hebron Academy in Maine. Chris raced for the Andover Buddy Werner League since she was 8 years old and also raced in the Bay State Games.

YMCA Synchers attend open meet

The A.N.A YMCA Synchers, a synchronized swimming team, attended the first open Figures meet of the 1991-1992 season recently at Wheaton College in Norton. The college was host to 139 athletes representing teams from throughout the New England area.

The swimmers were judged according to their ability in performing various positions in 12-feet of water. Score results were a reflection of the swimmers grace, accuracy, strength and breath control in executing the required figures.

Ribbons were awarded for places first through seventh and placement recognition for places eight through 25. In the Novice Open category, ages 10 years and under, those receiving ribbons were: Julia Conn in fourth place and Monica Turbett in sixth. Receiving placement recognition: Elizabeth Tomasino in eighth place, Tobi Ellen Cutler, ninth, and Nina Conn, 25th. In ages 11-12, placement recognition went to Julia

Audubon seeks help

The Massachusetts Audubon Society is calling on bird feeders all over the state to gather information for the fifth annual statewide bird feeding survey.

Each year, Massachusetts Audubon, with the help of thousands of bird watchers statewide, gathers information about winter bird populations and feeding habits during the annual survey. This year, the survey dates are Feb. 1 and 2.

By recording the number of each kind of bird at their feeders, residents provide information to Audubon ornithologists about the geographic distribution and food choices of birds which regularly appear in New England in winter.

Call Massachusetts Audubon at (617) 259-9500, Ext. 7401 to request a survey form.

School system could run in the red in '92

By Lisa Boudreau

The West Elementary School mold problem and smaller-than-expected revenues from the Shawsheen Extended Daycare program have one School Committee member worrying the system may run in the red this year.

"For the first time we are in serious jeopardy of over spending if we continue on the track we are on," Dick Hubbell of the School Committee told fellow members at Tuesday night's meeting.

He said the administration planned to cover operating costs at the Shawsheen kindergarten through grade one school with money from SHED.

SHED planned to compensate the school system for using portions of the Shawsheen School with daycare fees.

"SHED is short $95,000. They didn't get the enrollment they'd planned," he said.

Mr. Hubbell also said the special education budget is running in the red and the costs associated with fixing the mold problem that closed West Elementary for a week last November will put added stress on an already tight budget.

The School Committee received a $25,000 consulting bill from the industrial hygienist it hired. The town budget, which funds townwide maintenance including the schools, will face a bill of approximately $55,000 for clean up at West Elementary, said Frank Paul, the schools business manager.

The School Committee and Board of Selectmen will meet Thursday morning to discuss the division of the West Elementary bills.

According to Mr. Hubbell, the town budget for Fiscal Year 1993, released by the town manager last Friday, funds no raises for employees. The teachers' union is currently negotiating with the School Committee because the teachers' contract runs out in June.

Recycle

DO YOU HAVE an item or items that you no longer need, but that would be useful to someone else, something you'd be willing to give away if someone would come get it? For instance: boxes, storm windows, a child's bicycle, cardboard boxes, an old set of dishes.

You can list your recyclable items in the Townsman's newest classified section: "RECYCLE". (FREE of charge) It's a way to clean up your place while acknowledging the world is running out of landfill space. Simply write us listing your recyclables and we'll print them in the paper. No phone calls please.

Handicapped center buys building

raised approximately $150,000, which will help the center get a mortgage to pay the balance of the purchase price.

Bidding for the property was started at $450,000 by the auctioneer, dropped to $275,000 where the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. made the first bid, and went back up from there, according to Ms. Stocking. The school, RECOLL, and one unidentified party were the only bidders. RECOLL Management Corp. is the company managing foreclosed properties for the FDIC.

"Basically, the bidding was between RECOLL Management and the chairman of our board," (Charles Foster), Ms. Stocking said.

The school does not have any immediate plans to change the property, but there is a "strong possibility" it will add onto the building in the future, Ms. Stocking said.

And she thanked everyone who donated money during the fund raising drive.

"We actually received contributions from people we didn't know," Ms. Stocking said.

"The support was really heart warming."

19th anniversary

Ms. Anderson and Ms. Stocking started the center for handicapped children more than 18 years ago.

"We're about to celebrate our 19th anniversary," Ms. Stocking said this week.

The center started in 1973 in the educational building at Christ Church in Andover. It raised $200,000 from donations and renovated the former Knights of Columbus building with the landlord, Augustine Sheehy, in 1986, and moved in.

The center has two programs.

One is for infants to age 3, and serves 200 to 300 children, premature babies to multi-handicapped toddlers. The program provides physical therapy, speech therapy, testing, screening and family support, and is the only certified early childhood intervention program in this area.

The day-school program helps about 50 students a year, aged 3 to 7, with speech therapy, family support and educational programs. Two other programs like it exist in Massachusetts, one in Springfield and the other in Canton.

Vicor has two lots

The school is located on one of three lots, formerly owned by Augustine and Jeffrey Sheehy, and which were the subject of a rezoning warrant article at last April's Town Meeting.

Paul Bruk, owner of the building and property Vicor Corp. occupies at 23 Frontage Road, proposed to rezone the Professional Center property and the two adjacent vacant lots on Frontage Road from single family residential to industrial.

Mr. Bruk had a deal worked out with Vicor and the Sheehys to develop the land with an expansion of the Vicor building if the article passed. It failed.

But a subsequent Zoning Board of Appeals decision approved a plan by Mr. Bruk to use the two lots for the addition to his building and to create new parking. That decision is currently being appealed.

Meanwhile, all three properties were foreclosed on by the Bank of New England before BNE was taken over by the FDIC last spring.

In November, Vicor bought the two vacant lots on Frontage Road from RECOLL Management Corp. for the FDIC, for $130,000.

The change of ownership would not affect the ZBA decision, according to C. Ryan Buckley, appeals board chairman.

But after it purchased the two lots, Vicor was unable to sign a deal with Mr. Bruk regarding the expansion, according to Thomas St. Germaine, a vice president at Vicor.

For now, Vicor will create additional parking on the two lots, according to Mr. St. Germaine.

route that children take to walk to South School," he said.

According to Mr. Penney, two of the chemicals used at the plant, Hexane and Toluene, are known carcinogens. He said health risks vary depending on the chemicals in the emissions, length of exposure and concentration of the chemicals and the ages of the children who are exposed.

"Some of the solvents used in the (adhesive) manufacturing process produce air emissions that contain these" (chemicals), Mr. Penney said.

In 1989, Shawsheen Rubber was fined $18,000 by the EPA and state DEP.

According to Mr. Kelley, Shawsheen Rubber has worked closely with the state agencies and has taken steps to meet DEP regulations, such as reformulate adhesive products, redirect and in some cases eliminate some ventilation ductwork, enclose some equipment to minimize emissions and eliminate several outdated adhesive coating lines.

Mr. Penney said some of the step taken have reduced the pollution problem, but have not been effective in eliminating the odor coming from the smoke stacks.
